

Germans Had Set Date For War Against Czechoslovakia Before Munich

By WES GALLAGHER

Nuernberg, Dec. 3 (AP)—Hitler was not bluffing when his threats of war in 1938 led England and France to sign the Munich pact, secret German war plans introduced at the international war crimes trial of 20 leading Nazis disclosed today.

Documents laid before the International Military tribunal showed that the Munich pact—by which the Czech Sudetenland was handed over to the Nazis—was signed only two days before the date set by the German high command for four armies and the air force to be prepared for a blitz invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Not only were plans complete for the invasion of Czechoslovakia—with the help of Hungary—but the German air force expected France to join the fight and had prepared detailed plans for attack in the west, the evidence introduced by American prosecutors made plain.

Had Fixed Date

Relaying Hitler's "unalterable decision to smash Czechoslovakia by military action" to commanders of the German army, navy and air forces, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, was quoted in an official directive as ordering that "its execution must be assured as from October 1, 1938, at the latest."

Detailed plans for the blitz invasion and an agreement that Hungary would join in the attack left little doubt at the trial that the cold-blooded invasion would have been carried out if England and France had not signed the Munich pact on September 29, 1938—two days before the deadline set by the high command.

Citing the growth of the Nazi party into a powerful fifth column among the Sudeten Germans, an official Czechoslovakia report filed with the court asserted that "few people knew that Henlein (Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader in Czechoslovakia) went on Hitler's payroll . . . in 1933."

Had Set Trap

Declaring that the evidence tells the "inside story" of the Munich pact, Prosecutor Alderman said the mobilizing of Germany's armed might was "a trap set by these people who are here on trial."

Disclosure that two SS "Death's Head" battalions actually were engaged in raids across the Czechoslovak border, before the Munich meeting came in the reading of another order signed by Colonel General Jodl.

The SS battalions were operating under the command of Heinrich Himmler, chief of the SS and all secret police, but were to change to (Please Turn to Page 7)

TRUMAN ASKS CONGRESS TO GET THE FACTS

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to set up a fact-finding board to make recommendations for solving labor disputes in "important nation-wide industries" and to ban strikes or lockouts during federal consideration.

Recommending a system of handling reconversion labor troubles patterned after the Railway Labor act, Mr. Truman told the legislators the board should deal with disputes in such widespread industries as steel, automobile, aviation, mining, oil, utilities and communications.

The President said he was appointing such a board on his own authority to deal with the General (Please Turn to Page 7)

Two Men Pay Fines For Disorderliness

James Mitchell, 25, of Gettysburg, and Robert Feltz, 23, New Oxford, were fined $1 each and costs on drunk and disorderly charges when they pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore today.

Mitchell and Feltz engaged in an altercation in Mitchell's restaurant, center square at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, borough police said, during which the glass in a showcase was broken. They continued the argument outside, police said.

Mitchell was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Jennie Mitchell, owner of the restaurant, by Police Officer Charles W. Culp, Jr., who also took Feltz into custody. Mitchell was assessed $15 for damage to the showcase. He is no relation of the restaurant owner.

COUNTY TOPS INDIVIDUALS' BOND QUOTA

Adams county went "over the top" in its Victory Loan quota to individuals by $9,350.25 the War Finance Committee headquarters announced this morning. Total sales of all types of bonds to individuals, including E bonds, processed through the close of business on Saturday and reported to county headquarters mounted to $899,350.25. The quota was $890,000.

Adams is the first county in the 15-county area in this section of the state to oversubscribe its quota to individuals. It is the eighth consecutive bond drive in which the county went "over-the-top," having successfully attained its quota of more in every bond drive since the start of the war.

Short Of E Quota

"However, the county is far short of its E bond quota. Sales of this type of bond to individuals totaled $166,518.75 this morning. This is $183,481.25 short of the $350,000 quota.

All volunteer workers were urged today by chairman Edmund W. Thomas to concentrate on the sale of E bonds in an effort to attain the goal before the close of the drive.

"Every effort will be made to sell our quota of E bonds," one member of the county committee announced this morning. "We feel that with a concerted effort on the part of each volunteer worker we will achieve our objective and report a successful conclusion to the war financing projects in this county," he stated.

HUNTERS BRING VENISON HOME

Many county deer hunters reported initial success on Saturday, the first day of the antlered game season, as they hunted in this county or elsewhere in the state. There were no reports of hunting mishaps in this county.

Judge W. C. Sheely, hunting in Fulton county with a party of hunters from Adams and Fulton counties, bagged an eight-point buck about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The animal weighed about 125 pounds.

Earl Baumgardner, Cashtown, shot an eleven-point buck weighing 150 pounds Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock on Mary's mountain, near Orlanna.

Raphael Reddina, Gettysburg, R. 2, who observed his 17th birthday Friday and was on his first hunting trip Saturday, shot a six-point deer near Curtanna.

Clair Sanders, Gettysburg, R. 5, shot a four-point, 150-pound deer while hunting in Cumberland county, near Lewis's Rocks, about 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

On Saturday morning about 10 o'clock Elmer D. Cramwell, Fairfield, R. 1, brought down a six-point buck that dressed 114 pounds. Cramwell was hunting alone about two miles west of Fairfield.

Paul A. Dudash, 14, Fairfield, R. 1, killed a seven-point buck weighing 145 pounds while hunting with his father Saturday in the Mt. Hope section.

Nevin E. Harner shot a four-point buck Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Mt. Hope section. He dressed 109 pounds.

Miss Eberhardt Has Two Counties Added

Miss Elsa Eberhardt, home teacher for the blind in Adams and three nearby counties for the last two years, has had Schuylkill and Northumberland counties added to her territory. She has begun preliminary work in Schuylkill county but will continue to reside here for the present.

Miss Eberhardt served first in Franklin county and then had Adams, Fulton and Cumberland successively added to her territory. She estimates there are 700 to 800 blind persons or persons with very seriously impaired vision in these four counties.

Under her new schedule she expects to spend about two weeks a month in Gettysburg. She works under the State Council for the Blind.

Streamlined Date Is Today's Oddity

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Don't wait up for the next time it won't happen again for one hundred years.

Write out the abbreviated form for the date today and it reads: 12-3-45—a straight numerical progression.

It happened once before this year: 1,2-3-45. The next time will be January 23, 2045.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. William Shirner, Orlanna, announce the birth of a son at the Warner hospital Sunday morning.

257 Pupils Absent Due To Illnesses

Two hundred and fifty-seven school children of the Gettysburg public and parochial schools were absent today due to an epidemic of colds and grip prevalent in this area. Total enrollment for the schools is 1,455.

Absenteeism at the various buildings follow: High school, 93 out of 550; High Street, 45 of 221; Meade school, 36 of 229; Lincoln school, 23 of 214; parochial school, 60 of 241.

Mercersburg academy closed last week until after the Christmas holidays due to a similar epidemic.

JOHN P. BUTT IS HURT IN CRASH SUNDAY NIGHT

John P. Butt, Esq., Hotel Gettysburg annex, escaped with apparently minor injuries when his car struck a truck tractor and trailer while the big vehicle was in the act of turning on the Gettysburg-Hanover highway at the avenue leading to the Cavalry field. The accident occurred about 11 p. m. Sunday while Mr. Butt was returning from McSherrystown.

A large Mason and Dixon truck, which had taken the wrong road at Hanover and York street had backed into the avenue with its headlights turned toward Mr. Butt's approaching auto. Blinded by the lights which the former district attorney thought belonged to an approaching car, Mr. Butt continued in his side of the road and crashed into the gasoline tank and dual wheels at the rear of the tractor.

Although his car was damaged to the extent of $500 to $600, Mr. Butt escaped with lacerations of the nose and minor leg injuries. He received treatment at the Warner hospital.

The only damage to the truck which was operated by Boyd Gall Harris, Abingdon, Va., was a scratch on the gasoline tank.

Harris told state police who investigated that his helper was standing by the truck cab with a flashlight but the glare of the headlights apparently prevented Mr. Butt from seeing the man who had to jump out of the path of the Gettysburg attorney's car just before the collision. No charges have been filed.

BULLETINS

Wuppertal, Germany, Dec. 3 (AP)—A British military court today convicted 52-year-old Col. Erich Killinger, commandant, and two of his staff officers on charges of mistreating captured Allied airmen at the "weather camp" in the Ruhr.

Killinger and his aides had pleaded innocent to the charges of RAF pilots that they were tortured in hot, asbestos-lined cells at an interrogation center for captured Allied airmen in an endeavor to make them disclose Allied air secrets.

Detroit, Dec. 3 (AP)—The CIO Automobile Workers today asked U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark to investigate General Motors corporation with a view to anti-trust prosecution, contending GM's control of a large part of the supply of fuel pumps for the industry constitutes a monopoly.

Tehran, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Iranian government urgently petitioned Soviet Russia today to permit transportation of Iranian troops to trouble-ridden Azerbaijan province, where armed Democrat autonomists were reported to have seized police and government officials.

Soviet military authorities in Azerbaijan—which borders Russia—have prevented Iranian reinforcements from entering the province on the ground their presence would cause further fighting and bloodshed.

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—A 21-hour work stoppage which the National Maritime Union (CIO) said would involve 90,000 workers throughout the nation got under way this morning when 6,000 men left their jobs on the New York waterfront, tying up 120 ships. The union said the stoppage was a protest that overseas veterans were not being returned to the United States as rapidly as possible.

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—An administration spokesman in Congress contended today that Republicans are injecting politics into the foreign policy controversy touched off by Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley's resignation as ambassador to China. Rep. Sparkman of Alabama, newly designated as House Democratic whip, made the assertion.

S. Navy. He was commissioned as a lieutenant (junior grade) in the navy on April 14, 1942, and was twice promoted. Upon being discharged this fall he held the rank of lieutenant commander.

Yamashita Blames Army Unit For Atrocities Near Manila

Manila, Dec. 3 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita declared at his war crimes trial today that one of his army groups had the power of life or death over prisoners, and he was helpless to intervene.

The former Japanese commander in the Philippines made the startling statement when his counsel called him back to the stand to counter damage testimony by the prosecution's star rebuttal witnesses.

Yamashita said the 35th Army Group operating east of Manila, where many atrocities for which the prosecution seeks to hold him responsible were committed, had authority to appoint courts martial and try prisoners of war and internees.

Throughout his stay on the stand, Yamashita denied considerable portions of the testimony of the prosecution's star rebuttal witness, who became lost in a maze of defense questions attacking his credibility.

Col. Hideo Nishihara, who had testified a nod from Yamashita sent

DEPARTED ELKS EULOGIZED BY JUDGE SHEELY

"We remember our brothers as we will wish to be remembered, their virtues are written on the golden tablets of memory," Judge W. C. Sheely said Sunday evening, speaking at the annual memorial service of Gettysburg Lodge 1045, E. P. O. Elks in the Elks home, York street.

Fifty members of the lodge and an equal number of guests attended the ritualistic service conducted by officers of the lodge, with Exalted Ruler Arthur R. Buehler in charge. The "Lodge of Sorrow" was dedicated to the memory of Lt. Cmdr John E. "Tucker" Myers, New Oxford, who was killed when the ammunition cargo of his ship exploded.

"Tonight in more than 12,000 cities and towns services similar to this one are being held," Judge Sheely said. The virtues of those who died "are reflected and live in us," he continued. "Though they are gone, yet do they live. In the years to come there will return memories of those brothers we honor tonight. They will be with us, helping us to solve life's problems."

Message To Mother

To the mother of Lt. Cmdr. Myers, Mrs. Lucy J. Myers, and other relatives present at the service, Judge Sheely brought a special message. Eulogizing his high ideals and a life given for his country, he said:

"To the family of 'Tucker' Myers: I leave this thought—that God too gave his son that others might live. The service was in memory also of four other Elks who died during the past year. L. Edwin Motter, L. L. Whittinghill, William H. Allison and Homer S. Hill.

Exalted Ruler Buehler opened the service, followed by prayer by the chaplain, Elmer W. Warren. A hymn by a quartet, "God Is Our Refuge," was rendered by Charles Yost, Dale Roth, Edwin Lonznerker and Kenneth Alwine, with Mrs. Yost at the piano.

Altar Draped

The altar in the center of the lodge room was draped with an American flag, and held the Bible, an Elks' head and five candles, lighted by the esquire, Glenn L. Bream. On this altar, as part of the ritualistic ceremony, were placed forget-me-nots by Esteemed Leading Knight George L. Bushman; clinging ivy, by Esteemed Lecturing Knight W. Preston Hull and the amaranth, symbolical flower of immortality, by Esteemed Loyal Knight J. Donald Dillman.

A large basket of chrysanthemums in front of the black-draped altar fronted the exalted ruler's rostrum. The flowers later were taken to the Warner hospital.

Two other hymns were given by the quartet, "I Would Be True" and "My Task." A certificate for the medal of valor was presented to Mrs. Myers in honor of her son. The audience sang "Auld Lang Syne," and the service ended with the closing ritual by the chaplain and exalted ruler.

The committee in charge was composed of John Fox, W. Preston Hull, James S. Shenk, C. E. Schermer and William S. Whiteley.

Steinberger was found in the barn on his fruit farm near Scotland between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning by his brother L. A. Steinberger, tenant farmer on the farm and with whom the wounded man resided during recent weeks.

59 Japanese Added To War Crimes List By MacArthur

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Dec. 3 (AP)—General MacArthur's newest directive ordering the arrest of 59 prominent Japanese as war crimes suspects reaches into every strata of Nipponese society but leaves unanswered the question: What is a war criminal?

Neither rank nor position will protect suspected war criminals, MacArthur's directive demonstrates. The new "rogues gallery" includes one imperial prince, an ex-president of the privy council, two former premiers and nine erstwhile cabinet ministers, five prominent zaibatsu industrialists, militarists, bankers and newspaper executives.

These men are sandwiched into the latest war criminal list among some of Japan's most influential leaders—and some whose presence in this country is puzzling.

Germans Had Set Date For War Against Czechoslovakia Before Munich

COUNTY TOPS INDIVIDUALS' BOND QUOTA

Adams county went "over the top" in its Victory Loan quota to individuals by $9,350.25 the War Finance Committee headquarters announced this morning. Total sales of all types of bonds to individuals, including E bonds, processed through the close of business on Saturday and reported to county headquarters amounted to $899,350.25. The quota was $890,000.

Adams is the first county in the 15-county area in this section of the state to oversubscribe its quota to individuals. It is the eighth consecutive bond drive in which the county went "over-the-top," having successfully attained its quota of more in every bond drive since the start of the war.

Short Of E Quota
However, the county is far short of its E bond quota. Sales of this type of bond to individuals totaled $166,518.75 this morning. This is $183,481.25 short of the $350,000 quota.

All volunteer workers were urged today by chairman Edmund W. Thomas to concentrate on the sale of E bonds in an effort to attain the goal before the close of the drive.

"Every effort will be made to sell our quota of E bonds," one member of the county committee announced this morning. "We feel that with a concerted effort on the part of each volunteer worker we will achieve our objective and report a successful conclusion to the war financing projects in this county," he stated.

HUNTERS BRING VENISON HOME

Many county deer hunters reported initial success on Saturday, the first day of the antlered game season, as they hunted in this county or elsewhere in the state. There were no reports of hunting mishaps in this county.

Judge W. C. Sheely, hunting in Fulton county with a party of hunters from Adams and Fulton counties, bagged an eight-point buck about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The animal dressed about 125 pounds.

Earl Baumgardner, Cashtown, shot an eleven-point buck weighing 150 pounds Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock on Mary's mountain, near Orrtanna.

Raphael Redding, Gettysburg R. 2, who observed his 17th birthday Friday and was on his first hunting trip Saturday, shot a six-point deer near Orrtanna.

Clair Sanders, Gettysburg R. 5, shot a four-point, 155-pound deer while hunting in Cumberland county, near Lewis's Rocks, about 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

On Saturday morning about 10 o'clock Elmer D. Cromwell, Fairfield R. 1, brought down a six-point buck that dressed 114 pounds. Cromwell was hunting alone about two miles west of Fairfield.

Paul A. Dudash, 14, Fairfield R. 1, killed a seven-point buck weighing 145 pounds while hunting with his father Saturday in the Mt. Hope section.

Nevin E. Harner shot a four-point buck Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Mt. Hope section. It dressed 100 pounds.

Miss Eberhardt Has Two Counties Added

Miss Elsa Eberhardt, home teacher for the blind in Adams and three nearby counties for the last two years, has had Schuylkill and Northumberland counties added to her territory. She has begun preliminary work in Schuylkill county but will continue to reside here for the present.

Miss Eberhardt served first in Franklin county and then had Adams, Fulton and Cumberland successively added to her territory. She estimates there are 700 to 800 blind persons or persons with very seriously impaired vision in these four counties.

Under her new schedule she expects to spend about two weeks a month in Gettysburg. She works under the State Council for the Blind.

Streamlined Date Is Today's Oddity

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Don't wait up for the next time; it won't happen again for one hundred years. Write out the abbreviated form for the date today and it reads: 12/3/45—a straight numerical progression.

It happened once before this year: 1/23/45. The next time will be January 23, 2045.

257 Pupils Absent Due To Illnesses

Two hundred and fifty-seven school children of the Gettysburg public and parochial schools were absent today due to an epidemic of colds and grip prevalent in this area. Total enrollment for the schools is 1,455.

Absenteeism at the various buildings follows: High school, 93 out of 550; High Street, 45 of 221; Meade school, 36 of 229; Lincoln school, 23 of 214; parochial school, 60 of 241.

Mercersburg academy closed last week until after the Christmas holidays due to a similar epidemic.

JOHN P. BUTT IS HURT IN CRASH SUNDAY NIGHT

John P. Butt, Esq., Hotel Gettysburg annex, escaped with apparently minor injuries when his car struck a truck tractor and trailer while the big vehicle was in the act of turning on the Gettysburg-Hanover highway at the avenue leading to the Cavalry field. The accident occurred about 11 p. m. Sunday while Mr. Butt was returning from McSherrystown.

A large Mason and Dixon truck, which had taken the wrong road at Hanover and York street had backed into the avenue with its headlights turned toward Mr. Butt's approaching auto. Blinded by the lights which the former district attorney thought belonged to an approaching car, Mr. Butt continued in his side of the road and crashed into the gasoline tank and dual wheels at the rear of the tractor.

Although his car was damaged to the extent of $500 to $600, Mr. Butt escaped with lacerations of the nose and minor leg injuries. He received treatment at the Warner hospital.

The only damage to the truck which was operated by Boyd Galt Harris, Abington, Va., was a scratch on the gasoline tank.

Harris told state police who investigated that his helper was standing by the truck cab with a flashlight but the glare of the headlights apparently prevented Mr. Butt from seeing the man who had to jump out of the path of the Gettysburg attorney's car just before the collision. No charges have been filed.

Wuppertal, Germany, Dec. 3 (AP)—A British military court today convicted 52-year-old Col. Erich Killinger, commandant, and two of his staff officers on charges of mistreating captured Allied airmen at the "sweatbox camp" in the Ruhr.

Killinger and his aides had pleaded innocent to the charges of RAF pilots that they were tortured in hot, asbestos-lined cells at an interrogation center for captured Allied airmen in an endeavor to make them disclose Allied air secrets.

TEHRAN, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Iranian government urgently petitioned Soviet Russia today to permit transportation of Iranian troops to trouble-ridden Azerbaijan province, where armed Democrat autonomists were reported to have seized police and government officials.

Soviet military authorities in Azerbaijan—which borders Russia—have prevented Iranian reinforcements from entering the province on the ground their presence would cause further fighting and bloodshed.

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—A 24-hour work stoppage which the National Maritime Union (NIO) said would involve 90,000 workers throughout the nation got under way this morning when 6,000 men left their jobs on the New York waterfront, tying up 120 ships. The union said the stoppage was a protest that overseas veterans were not being returned to the United States as rapidly as possible.

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—An administration spokesman in Congress contended today that Republicans are injecting politics into the foreign policy controversy touched off by Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley's resignation as ambassador to China. Rep. Sparkman of Alabama, newly designated as House Democratic whip, made the assertion.

S. Navy.

Yamashita Blames Army Unit For Atrocities Near Manila

Manila, Dec. 3 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita declared at his war crimes trial today that one of his army groups had the power of life or death over prisoners and he was helpless to intervene.

The former Japanese commander in the Philippines made the startling statement when his counsel called him back to the stand to counter damaging testimony by the prosecution's rebuttal witnesses.

Yamashita said the 35th Army Group operating east of Manila, where many atrocities for which the prosecution seeks to hold him responsible were committed, had authority to appoint courts martial and try prisoners of war and internees.

The army group was vested with this power at the time of its activation, the general testified, and he was without authority to take it away.

Throughout his stay on the stand, Yamashita denied considerable portions of the testimony of the prosecution's star rebuttal witness, who became lost in a maze of defense questions attacking his credibility.

Col. Hideo Nishihara, who had testified a nod from Yamashita sent

DEPARTED ELKS EULOGIZED BY JUDGE SHEELY

"We remember our brothers as we will wish to be remembered, their virtues are written on the golden tablets of memory," Judge W. C. Sheely said Sunday evening, speaking at the annual memorial service of Gettysburg Lodge 1045, B. P. O. Elks in the Elks home, York street.

Fifty members of the lodge and an equal number of guests attended the ritualistic service conducted by officers of the lodge, with Exalted Ruler Arthur R. Buehler in charge. The "Lodge of Sorrow" was dedicated to the memory of Lt. Cmdr. John E. (Tucker) Myers, New Oxford, who was killed when the ammunition cargo of his ship exploded.

"Tonight in more than 12,000 cities and towns services similar to this one are being held," Judge Sheely said. The virtues of those who died "are reflected and live in us," he continued. "Though they are gone, yet do they live. In the years to come there will return memories of those brothers we honor tonight. They will be with us, helping us to solve life's problems."

Message To Mother
To the mother of Lt. Cmdr. Myers, Mrs. Lucy J. Myers, and other relatives present at the service, Judge Sheely brought a special message. Eulogizing his high ideals and a life given for his country, he said:

"To the family of 'Tucker' Myers I leave this thought—that God too gave his son that others might live." The service was in memory also of four other Elks who died during the past year: L. Edwin Motter, L. L. Whittinghill, William H. Allison and Homer S. Hill.

Exalted Ruler Buehler opened the service, followed by prayer by the chaplain, Elmer W. Warren. A hymn by a quartet, "God Is Our Refuge," was rendered by Charles Yost, Dale Roth, Edwin Longenecker, and Kenneth Alwine, with Mrs. Yost at the piano.

Altar Draped
The altar in the center of the lodge room was draped with an American flag, and held the Bible, an Elks' head and five candles, lighted by the esquire, Glenn L. Bream. On this altar, as part of the ritualistic ceremony, were placed forget-me-nots by Esteemed Leading Knight George L. Bushman; clinging ivy, by Esteemed Lecturing Knight W. Preston Hull and the amaranth, symbolical flower of immortality, by Esteemed Loyal Knight J. Donald Dillman.

A large basket of chrysanthemums in front of the black-draped charter fronted the exalted ruler's rostrum. The flowers later were taken to the Warner hospital.

Two other hymns were given by the quartet, "I Would Be True," and "My Task." A certificate for the medal of valor was presented to Mrs. Myers in honor of her son. The audience sang "Auld Lang Syne," and the service ended with the closing ritual by the chaplain and exalted ruler.

The committee in charge was composed of John Fox, W. Preston Hull, James S. Shenk, C. E. Swisher and William S. Whiteley.

P. STEINBERGER SHOT IN HEAD; MAY NOT LIVE

Paul I. Steinberger, whose age is given by state police at about 54, is in a critical condition in the Chambersburg hospital with a gun shot wound through the head. His condition is reported to be so grave that little hope is being held for his recovery. At noon he had not regained consciousness.

State Police Pvt. Harold Trout, of the Chambersburg substation who is investigating, said he did not know whether the wound was self-inflicted.

Steinberger was found in the barn on his fruit farm near Scotland between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning by his brother L. A. Steinberger, tenant farmer on the farm and with whom the wounded man resided during recent weeks.

A .22 calibre rifle was found between Steinberger's legs and the shot had entered the forehead between the eyes. He was bleeding profusely from the nose, mouth and ears. He was removed to the hospital in an ambulance.

Steinberger had had domestic difficulty during recent months. He had been charged by his second wife with desertion and non-support and previous to that he was involved in an assault and battery case involving his wife. A divorce case is pending.

59 Japanese Added To War Crimes List By MacArthur

By RUSSELL BRINES
Tokyo, Dec. 3 (AP)—General MacArthur's newest directive ordering the arrest of 59 prominent Japanese as war crimes suspects reaches into every strata of Nipponese society but leaves unanswered the question: What is a war criminal?

Neither rank nor position will protect suspected war criminals, MacArthur's directive demonstrates. The new "rogues gallery" includes one imperial prince, an ex-president of the privy council, two former premiers and nine erstwhile cabinet ministers, five prominent zaibatsu (industrialists), militarists, bankers and newspaper executives.

These men are sandwiched into the latest war criminal list among some of Japan's most influential leaders—and some whose presence in this company is puzzling.

Name Field Marshal
The newest group reached deeply into domestic totalitarianism. Seven of the militarists once were top men in the dreaded Kempeitai or Thought Police. Several were prominent in the Imperial Rule Assistance Association, Japan's first single party, and its successors. The list included:

Field Marshal Shunroku Hata, former war minister who retired in 1940 and gave Dictator Hideki Tojo his big chance by naming him as his successor. Hata miraculously escaped death by sitting out in an air raid shelter during the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

Baron Kichiro Hiranuma, former premier and now president of the privy council and senior elder statesman. Although known as a Japanese Fascist, he opposed the Tripartite Pact with Germany and Italy.

Former Premier Koki Hirota, under whose administration the Anti-Comintern pact was signed in 1936 as a substitute for the Tripartite pact.

The Diet, opening the second week of its second extraordinary session since the occupation, probably will be colored by war responsibility.

8 Peers Accused
MacArthur's list named eight members of the House of Peers and involved several so-called advisors to various totalitarian political organizations. The threat was plain for the list omitted several of the principal spokesmen of those organizations, some of whom now are sitting in the House of Representatives.

Although MacArthur demanded the arrest of the man who named Tojo war minister, the order ignored, for the time being at least, the man who selected him as premier: Marquis Koichi Kido, former lord keeper of the privy seal.

It tapped several more former Tojo ministers on the shoulder, but omitted a onetime finance minister, Sotaro Ishiwata, now imperial household minister.

But those exalted positions were no protection, for the list named Imperial Prince Nashimoto, presumably because of his position as lord custodian of the national Shinto shrines.

MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY
Based on Philip Stong's famed novel of the same name, "State Fair" comes to the screen of the Majestic theatre the first three days of next week set to the music of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, who thrilled the country with "Oklahoma" and "Carousel." A 20th-Century-Fox technicolor production, the film stars Dana Andrews, Jeanne Crain, Dick Haymes, and Vivian Blaine with a brilliant supporting cast headed by Charles Winninger and Fay Bainter.

"State Fair," set against the gay and colorful background of the fairs that were the year's high point in all-out fun for millions of Americans before the war, tells the exciting and romantic story of the Frake family who went to the fair in search of love and glory and experienced the most radiantly joyous adventures anyone ever had.

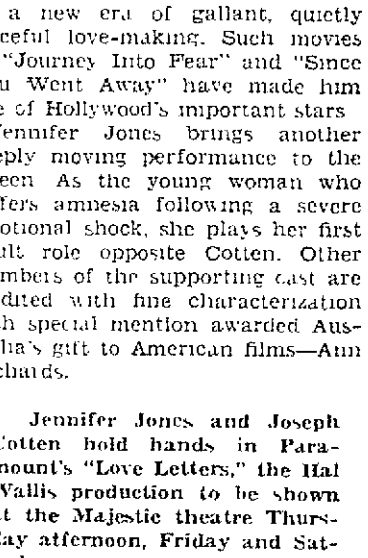

FRIDAY, SATURDAY

"Love Letters," co-starring Jennifer Jones and Joseph Cotten comes to the Majestic theatre Thursday afternoon, Friday and Saturday Ann Richards, Anita Louise, Cecil Kellaway, Gladys Cooper and Robert Scully also figure in the cast.

Joseph Cotten portrays the screen lover. This is something new at a time when fists, rather than finesse, usually win the fair lady's heart. But "Gentleman Joe" has ushered in a new era of gallant, quietly forceful love-making. Such movies as "Journey Into Fear" and "Since You Went Away" have made him one of Hollywood's important stars.

Jennifer Jones brings another deeply moving performance to the screen. As the young woman who suffers amnesia following a severe emotional shock, she plays her first adult role opposite Cotten. Other members of the supporting cast are credited with fine characterization with special mention awarded Australia's gift to American films—Ann Richards.

Jennifer Jones and Joseph Cotten hold hands in Paramount's "Love Letters," the Hal Wallis production to be shown at the Majestic theatre Thursday afternoon, Friday and Saturday.

UNIFIED LABOR IS LEWIS PLEA

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Leaders of the National Labor-Management conference, admitting their gains had fallen short of their goals, today saw in its completed deliberations some hopeful signs for the future.

Their statements, however, were overshadowed by speculation whether John L. Lewis' closing appeal for unity in the policies and leadership of "the house of labor" meant he might return to the AFL.

The man who split off from AFL to form CIO and then split off from CIO to run his united mine workers as an independent union told the Labor delegates they had worked at a disadvantage in the face of the management group's "organized, efficient functioning" while the Labor groups quarreled.

Lewis declared that Labor's division caused a "weakening in strength and in policies, and a failure sometimes to achieve all the objectives it might hope to attain." And during one conference recess the United Mine Workers' leader went into an AFL caucus room.

The conference became a Labor battleground for a time in its final, full session late yesterday. AFL and CIO offered rival resolutions calling for genuine collective bargaining and nationwide wage increases.

Hollywood By Bob Thomas

Hollywood, Dec. 1 (P)—Now that "The Lost Weekend" is astounding movie customers, folks are speculating how the picture will affect the consumption of alcohol.

The film adaptation of the Charles Jackson novel depicts faithfully (I understand) a week-end binge, complete with DT's and everything. It is one of the two or three important pictures of the year and will cause much comment.

Its makers, Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder purposely injected a line by the male nurse in the DT ward of the public hospital "The current capacity of the ward is nothing," he says, "you should have seen it during the prohibition days."

Producer Brackett said he and Billy have explored the baser passions too long and will do a musical next. Their star will be Bing Crosby.

Non-movie scene of the week: Red Skelton and his wife toasting Director Frank Borzage and his bride—the ex-Mrs. Skelton and still Red's thrifty business manager—at the Hollywood Brown Derby. Lloyd Nolan, who bolstered 20th-Fox's pictures for too long, gets a new contract which will allow him the bigger roles he deserves.

Imagine GI's requesting leg art of a producer. Soldiers at Santa Ana Air Base asked for some of Joan Harrison. . . Don't tell the Chamber of Commerce, but John Payne caught the flu at Palm Springs. . . For their second wedding anniversary, Sid Luft gave Lynn Bari a certificate for a 1946 Cadillac. I should live so long.

Hard Coal Prices Increase Today

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Prices for hard coal are up 5 to 65 cents a ton, depending upon grade and size.

The increase is effective today, but OPA said some householders may not begin paying the higher prices until next week when dealers have received new schedules from the mines.

The price boost was ordered to restore mine operators' profit margins to the equivalent of what they were in 1942-1943 cents a ton. This is the minimum fixed by the Government under Price control.

The overall average price increase amounts to 19 cents a ton. For the nine largest Pennsylvania anthracite producers the boost averages 11.6 cents, while for most other companies it averages 32 cents.

MORE MONARCHS JOIN RANKS OF 'UNEMPLOYED'

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

London, Dec. 3.—Another monarch will have joined the swelling ranks of the royal unemployed if Albania's general election of yesterday bears out its promise, for the success of Premier Enver Hoxha's democratic front is generally taken to mean the end of the colorful King Zog, now a refugee in England.

When the second world war began there were five kings ruling in the Balkan kingdoms—Greece, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania and Albania. Now there is only one on his throne—youthful King Mihai of Romania, who has stuck out his stubborn jaw and refused to be budged from his heritance. And one wonders how long Mihai will be able to bare his head to the leftist storm which is sweeping his kingdom. Of course, the case of King George of Greece hasn't yet been definitely settled, but it will be an amazing thing if he is ever recalled from his exile in England.

All In Same Hotel

It's some 21 years ago that young Ahmed Zogu, sword at side, rode out of the pages of a medieval story book of adventure and headed a revolt which ousted Bishop Fan S. Noli, who had been governing the country through a parliament of sorts. A couple of years later parliament changed the constitution to permit Zogu to mount the throne as King Zog I, and he zogged along successfully until the exigencies of the world war drove him out. The United States will remember his visit in 1940 with his two attractive sisters.

Now Zog, George of Greece and Peter of Yugoslavia—who also has been ousted from his throne—have sanctuary here in England. As a matter of fact they have headquarters in the same hotel, and when Peter got his dismissal last week, George of Greece could not sympathize with him.

It must be tough to lose a throne. I lost a bright sixpence on a bus this morning and the Scotch blood within me still runs hot because of it.

CLAIMS SHORT MESSAGE WAS "INADEQUATE"

By JACK BELL

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Sherman A. Miles said today that the reply Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short made from Hawaii on November 28, 1941 to a war warning message from Washington was "totally inadequate."

Miles testified before the Senate-House group investigating Pearl Harbor. Thursday the committee is to hear General of the Army George C. Marshall who sent the warning message.

Evidence was cited by Rep. Clark (D-NC) that on November 27 Marshall warned Short that "hostile action is possible at any moment" and to take reconnaissance and such other measures "as you deem necessary."

Island Alerted

Filed as a reply was word from Short to Marshall the next day that the Hawaiian Department was "alerted to prevent sabotage."

"Was that in any way responsive?" asked Clark.

Miles, who was head of army intelligence at the time of Pearl Harbor, demurred. He said he would like that question to be directed to officers who saw the reply. He named these as Secretary of War Stimson, General Marshall and the chief of the war plans division, Gen. Leonard T. Gerow.

But Clark persisted, saying that he wanted Miles' opinion as a military man of long experience.

"Very well, sir," replied Miles. "My opinion is that that message was a totally inadequate reply to the message it purported to reply to."

Miles continued that while the Short message did not say that only steps against sabotage had been taken, "there is an inference of that." He said a reference by Short to liaison with the Navy "might or might not" indicate that the general was planning a later message covering other actions.

Miles previously testified he considered General George C. Marshall's Nov. 27, 1941 message "sufficient warning to cause the necessary and proper alert to be put into effect" to meet the Japanese Pearl Harbor attack.

Under questioning by Reps. Cooper (D-Tenn) and Clark (D-NC), Miles told a Senate-House inquiry committee he regarded the message of Marshall, then chief of staff, as word to the Hawaiian fortress that "the situation you were built for has arrived, be on the alert."

NAVY CAPTAIN FACES COURT ON LOSS OF SHIP

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—The navy formally accused Capt. Charles B. McVay, III, today of negligence and culpable inefficiency in the loss of the 10,000-ton cruiser Indianapolis in the closing days of the war. He is a native of Ephrata, Pa.

The charges were prepared for the opening session of a general court martial convened at the Washington Navy Yard to try the 47-year-old son of a retired admiral.

Every man aboard the Indianapolis was a casualty when enemy action sent her to the bottom of the Philippine sea last July 30. Dead or missing totaled 880, the wounded 316.

Signed by Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, the charges made public for the first time as the seven-man military tribunal convened, accused McVay of:

Faces Two Charges

1. "Through negligence suffering a vessel of the navy to be hazarded," and

2. "Culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty."

Under the first charge, the captain was accused specifically of neglecting "to cause zigzag course to be steered" through an area in which enemy submarines "might be encountered."

Under the second charge, he was accused of failing, after being informed that the ship was in a sinking condition, "to issue and see effected such timely orders as were necessary to cause said vessel to be abandoned, as it was his duty to do."

As a result, the specifications set forth, "many persons on board perished with the sinking of said vessel."

Challenge Charge

As the court martial opened, counsel for Captain McVay challenged the first of the two charges—negligence in that the officer neglected to put the cruiser on a zigzag course through submarine-infested waters. The defense said "the first charge fails to state an offense, it merely sets out a conclusion."

The challenge sent the court into private sessions and after a ten-minute conference Admiral Wilder Baker announced that the challenge had been rejected and the court martial would proceed on the original charges.

Admiral Baker explained that the court instructions stated it was not essential to assert in a specification that the accused committed a breach of federal statute or naval regulations.

He said the court found the charges and specifications in due form and technically correct.

Counsel for the accused, when asked if he was ready to proceed, requested a postponement of one day to complete the preparation of his case, and the court adjourned until 10:00 a. m. tomorrow.

The heavy cruiser—which had

CADETS FIRST WITH PERFECT 2-YEAR RECORD

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The football season is finished except for the Bowl festivals and East-West, North-South games, but the thousands of fans who saw army's record-busting array in action probably will be talking about this peerless grid machine until another fall campaign rolls around.

In beating navy 32-13 Saturday for their ninth straight victory this year and their 18th in a row over two seasons, Coach Earl Blaik's repeating National champions became the first cadet corps ever to go through two campaigns with perfect records and the first to win more than 16 games in succession.

L. A. Toos Philly
A sell-out crowd of 102,000 spectators, including President Truman, saw the service classic in Philadelphia's wind-swept municipal stadium, but the top throng of the day was gathered in Los Angeles' memorial coliseum where 103,000 fans watched southern California's Trojans defeat UCLA 26-15 and earn the right to meet Alabama in the Rose Bowl.

Alabama wound up its campaign unbeaten and untied by slaughtering Mississippi State 55-13 as Harry Gilmer put on another impressive aerial display by completing 13 of 19 passes for two touchdowns. The only major bowl vacancy left is in Miami where the Orange Bowl committee today will pick an opponent for Holy Cross. In the running for that position are University of Miami, (Florida), Tennessee, Louisiana State and Georgia.

Notre Dame Upset
Miami furthered its chances by walloping Auburn 33-7 Friday night. Tennessee trounced Vanderbilt 45-0; Louisiana State won the battle of the Bayous by whipping Tulane 33-0 and Georgia wrapped up the state title by overwhelming Georgia Tech 33-0.

Southern Methodist mauled Texas Christian 34-0 and finished second to Texas in the southwest conference. Baylor's Bull Johnson put Rice out of the picture by booting a 31-yard field goal with 15 seconds to go to upset the Owls 17-14.

The ranking form reversal of the week-end saw Great Lakes' sailors mow down Notre Dame 39-7 while California staked another surprise by beating St. Mary's pre-flight 6-0.

"T" FORMATION REACHES PEAK

By JACK HAND

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The T formation has reached its peak and the defense is beginning to catch up with it in the opinion of a majority of the nation's college football coaches replying to an Associated Press poll.

Although the trend toward the T continued unabated during 1945 with even such a single wing stalwart as Coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina tinkering with the formation, the consensus seemed to be expressed by Coach Frank Thomas, of Alabama, who said, "the T has seen its best days."

The report was by no means unanimous and there were such violent dissenters as Coach Phil Sorboe, of Washington State, who found the T in its "infancy" and Coach Lou Little, of Columbia, an exponent of a variation called the winged-T, who believes that no sound system ever has reached a peak of development.

Forward passing enjoyed one of its greatest seasons, perhaps because such tossers as Harry Gilmer, of Alabama, Ben Ramondini, of Indiana, and others were on hand to do the throwing. Most of the coaches failed to find any revolutionary results from the rule change that permitted passing at any point behind the line of scrimmage.

Clark Shaughnessy, of Pitt., thought the rule was valuable because it "removed a mental hazard" from the passer who no longer had to worry about being five yards back and Coach Ray Morrison, of Temple, echoed the thought.

Hogan Wins With Lead Of 6 Strokes

Orlando, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—Little Ben Hogan, with the Orlando open golf title to his credit, was $2,000 richer today.

With solid strokes and faultless putting, the 140-pound pro from Hershey, Pa., finished the $10,000 tournament yesterday with a 72-hole score of 270, six strokes ahead of his nearest competitors.

Harold Grogan, of Sanford, Me., and Johnnie Revolta, of Evanston, Ill., each with a 276, pocketed $1,066 apiece.

Yesterday's victory brought to 15 the money tournaments Hogan has won since his army discharge last August and boosted his winnings to $29,000.

Other money winners in the Orlando tournament included Sammy Sneed, of Hot Springs, Va., and Henry Ransom, of Houston, Tex., each with a 277 and $733; Herman Keiser, of Akron, O., with a 278 good for $600; and Joe Kirkwood, of Philadelphia, getting $500 for a 279.

Quaker City Women Take Hockey Title

Bryn Mawr, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Unbeaten, untied, and unscored on, the All-Philadelphia first team held the distinction of being the top women's hockey team in the nation today after scoring a double victory to snare the national women's field hockey tournament, first held since Pearl Harbor.

The Quaker City No. 1 eleven drubbed Baltimore 7-0 and edged West Jersey 1-0 yesterday at the Bryn Mawr college field. Previously, the squad had upset Stuyvesant, N. Y., 9-0.

The All-Philadelphia reserves (No. 2 team) and Virginia State also were undefeated in three starts in the two-day tourney but the Philadelphia varsity's efficient team play and scoring prowess won top honors.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Al Hoosman, the big heavyweight who came out of the army to get the benefit of Jimmy Johnston's publicity efforts, may get his first real test tonight when he faces Lee Savold at St. Nick's. . . And that leads you to wonder what about the rest of the new boxing talent that supposedly was being developed in service bouts. . . Nat Fleischer of the ring magazine has the answer. He says the newcomers are performing "beyond expectations" though, naturally, they're nowhere near the top yet. . . Fleischer ventures a prediction that either Howie Brod or Laverne Roach, marine middleweights, will be a world champion some day. They both look exceptionally promising.

Redskins Need To Beat Giants
Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—The home office of the National football league sat back and waited today to see what those unpredictable New York Giants would do next Sunday before it scheduled the intra-league play-offs for the world's professional grid championship.

Originally the playoff was scheduled for a week from Sunday, December 16. It may be played on that date—if Washington's Redskins, current leaders of the eastern division, can get past the Giants in the season's finale next Sunday.

Post-Season Game
If they don't Washington and Philadelphia will play a post-season game that day to see which gets a crack at the Cleveland Rams, champions of the western division.

Philadelphia's Eagles and Washington were tied up for first in the eastern division before yesterday's games. Then those Giants, who two weeks ago dumped Detroit out of a possible playoff berth, swept from behind to knock Philadelphia out of a tie with Washington for the eastern division lead. The score, in one of the season's biggest upsets, was 28-21 for the Giants.

If the Giants knock off the Redskins Sunday and if Philadelphia beats the Boston Yanks, a playoff game for the eastern title will be necessary.

Rams Are In
Meanwhile, Cleveland's Rams, who already had clinched the western division title, had little trouble winning from the Boston Yanks, 20-7.

Washington gave the Pittsburgh Steelers little chance to score as the Redskins played out the eastern division with a 24-0 shutout.

In other games the Chicago Bears outlasted their southside rivals the Chicago Cardinals, for a 28-20 victory, and Detroit defeated the champion Green Bay Packers, 14-3.

Has New Team
Etna, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Etna has a long, hard grind for Coach Clarence Metzger to bring his Etna high school basketball team to the top again this year in the WPIAL, class B division.

Last year's defending champions lost four regulars and one promising reserve. The lone varsity hold-over is Guard Jack Gauster.

Etna captured the title last season by defeating East Deer, Youngwood, Ligonier and Avon in tourney play.

ARMY TO HAVE ANOTHER GOOD TEAM IN 1946

By BOB CAVAGNARO

Philadelphia, Dec. 3 (AP)—Just as Army dominated the intercollegiate football seasons of 1944 and 1945, there is a reason to suspect the West Point eleven again will be the team to beat for national gridiron honors next year.

Over the week-end, there was written into the records Army's 32-13 victory over Navy in the 46th meeting between the service academies.

To Navy—an inspired, highly spirited fighting team which gave Army its toughest struggle this year—went the credit of being the only 1945 team to score through the Cadets first-string forward line. The Middies went through it once and played Army on even terms except for the Cadets' three touchdown blast in the first period.

The triumph was Army's 18th consecutive win in two years. The game was the last for three members of the West Point varsity. Captain and Guard John Green, Tackle Al Nemetz and End Dick Pitzer, seniors, will be graduated next June.

18 Will Graduate
All in all, 18 members of this year's squad of 47 will receive commissions next year, among them are Dick Walter House, the placekicking specialist and Tucker's relief at quarterback and Bob Chabot who saw a lot of ball carrying duty in the Penn and Navy games.

It appears that Blaik's biggest job will be to find rugged replacements for Pitzer, Green and Nemetz, but he has a long list of underclassmen reserves.

It is doubtful that Blaik is worrying about his task for next year. But if he is, there isn't a coach in the country who wouldn't gladly accept Blaik's 1946 team-building responsibilities, especially if they inherited two players like Blanchard and Davis.

KULPMONT WINS EASTERN TITLE

By TOM SHRIVER
Harrisburg, Dec. 3 (AP)—The last championship has been decided and scholastic football in Pennsylvania is over until 1946.

Kulpmont won the Eastern conference title on Saturday by defeating Larksville 12-7 in a playoff between the northern and southern division winners, waged on a snow-covered gridiron.

With this victory the Wildcats extended their two-year winning streak to 22 straight, 11 each season, and returned the conference crown to the southern division.

Other champions named in 1945 were:

East-Central (Big Fifteen) conference, won by Allentown, with undefeated Williamsport as runner-up.

Western Winner
Western conference, won by Huntman's unbeaten Bears, with unbeaten Bedford as runner-up.

WPIAL championship, won by Donora for the second straight year, extending a two-year streak to 19 straight.

Big Sixteen (mythical title) won by Erie Academy for second straight year with a record of ten wins and two losses.

Susquehanna Valley league, won by Milton with a record of eleven straight victories.

Lough Valley league, won by Northampton.

Lackawanna Valley conference, won by Dunmore.

South Penn conference, won by Hershey.

Philadelphia Title
Public high (Philadelphia), won by Southern; Catholic (Philadelphia), won by West Catholic.

Chewsville with a record of ten straight victories over some of the leading teams in Central Pennsylvania, claims the mythical Central Pennsylvania championship.

Williamsport kept pace with Kulpmont in the only other game played Saturday, chalking up its eleventh straight for the year at the expense of Steelton, 21-7.

8 Teams Complete Season Undefeated
New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Eight college football teams finished the 1945 season unbeaten and untied, headed by Army's national champions for the second year in a row.

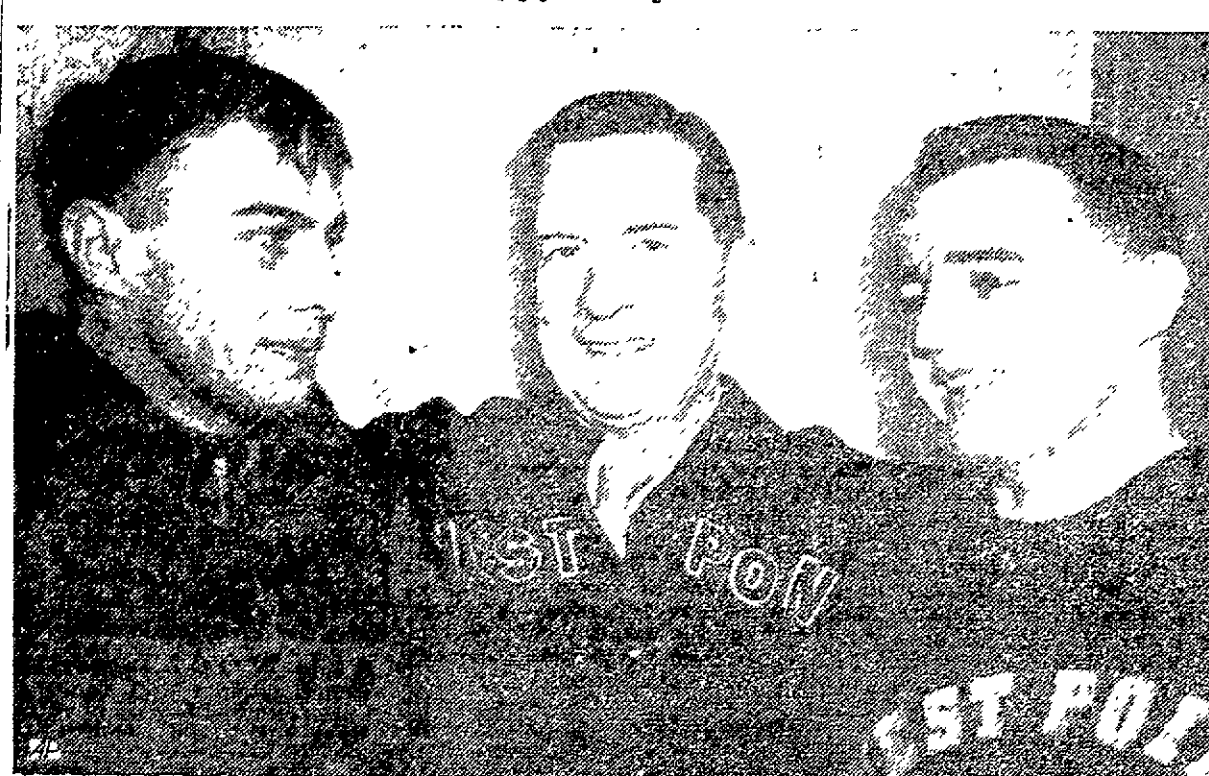

In the final week of the campaign only one eleven dropped out of the ranks. Little High Point college of North Carolina was tied 7-7 by Milligan Thursday.

The unbeaten and untied teams:

Team	G.	Pts.	Op.
Army	8	412	46
Alabama	8	375	61
Oklahoma A and M	8	252	63
Arkansas Tech	8	311	6

Hornets Do Better In Home Contests

(By The Associated Press)
It took a taste of home cooking to get the Pittsburgh Hornets back on the beam in the American hockey league.

A three-week stretch on the road cost the Hornets plenty of chances to move up on the Indianapolis Capitals, current western division leaders.

But since the Hornets got back in their home rink they've been hotter than a blast furnace. They mauled the New Haven Eagles 7-3 Saturday then belted New Haven 5-3 Sunday.

Indianapolis beat St. Louis 6-4 Saturday and tied Cleveland 3-all Sunday.

Hershey halted Buffalo 7-1 Saturday but dropped a 4-2 decision to Providence Sunday. Buffalo rebounded from its defeat and massacred St. Louis 12-4 Sunday.

The loop will be inactive until Tuesday when New Haven visits St. Louis.

Williams Warned Must Fight Soon

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The National Boxing association has warned heavyweight champion Mike Williams to sign for a championship bout by January 1 or face loss of his crown.

President Abe Greene and Williams' husky defender his title since last April when he won it from Juan Zureta in Mexico. I understand negotiations are under way for a Williams-Wilke Jevic title match. All I can say is, it better be closed before January 1.

The boxing group also decided to notify all retained servicemen or women whose title had been frozen while they were in the services that they must sign up for championship bouts by June 1. This decision affects three titleholders: light heavyweight Gus Leveque, middleweight Tony Zale and bantamweight Manuel Ortiz.

Western Pa. Teams Open Season Early

Pittsburgh, Dec. 3 (AP)—Wilkesburg high opens tonight at Turtle Creek to set section six of the WPIAL basketball circuit off to a fast start.

The early opening is due to combining last year's section six and seven into one group of 11 strong Monongahela Valley teams, necessitating a longer playing season.

The rivals this year for the section title in addition to Wilkesburg and Turtle Creek are Homestead, Munhall, McKeesport, Duquesne, Chartop, Scott, Bradock, Rankin and Swissvale.

Eight teams swung into action tomorrow night with Swissvale at McKeesport, Munhall at Scott, Rankin at Chartop, and Bradock at Duquesne.

Goering Sorry He Missed 'That Dog'

Nuernberg, Dec. 3 (AP)—Reichsmarschal Hermann Goering was reported today to be "considerably upset" over the missing testimony given for the prosecution by Gen. Edwin Lahousen, former German counter intelligence officer.

Goering was reported to have turned to Field Marshal Kretz during Lahousen's testimony and said: "My God, we overlooked that dog on July 20th."

He apparently referred to the prize which helped the "pimp" to assassinate Hitler on July 20, 1944.

WRONG AGAIN

San Francisco, Dec. 3 (AP)—It's still 19 days before the shortest day of the year, but you're wrong if you think the attentions are getting shorter, according to the weather men. They say in a much shorter time than they are now, and by the time the shortest day arrives it will actually have but more minutes of p. m. daylight than we have now. That, the weathermen explain, is because next week the earth's orbit will continue to swing closer to the sun until Jan. 20, when we will have the shortest day of the year.

AMVETS SEEK NEW LAWS FOR WAR VETERANS

Harrisburg, Dec. 3 (AP)—A special session of the Legislature was urged by the executive committee of the American Veterans of World War II as an aid to returning servicemen seeking to resume civilian life.

The AMVETS voted at a meeting here yesterday to send a telegram to Governor Martin urging that "the state of Pennsylvania should take the lead in enacting needed veterans legislation."

Advocating a five-point program to ease the problem of veteran rehabilitation the AMVETS sought action on the following subjects:

1. Legislation to liberalize the states banking, building and loans, and trust investment laws so that loans could more readily be made to veterans.

2. Preference for veterans in filling vacancies in public employment and in securing licenses and franchise, to go into various types of business.

3. Protection for the large number of psychoneurotic veterans who are becoming involved in criminal cases, especially legislation to make state and county hospitals available to veterans during the current shortage of veteran hospitals.

4. A discharge bonus to enable veterans to purchase clothing and furniture needed to resume civilian life.

5. Legislation to make it mandatory on local school districts to provide every opportunity for veterans.

"T" FORMATION REACHES PEAK

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The T formation has reached its peak and the defense is beginning to catch up with it in the opinion of a majority of the nation's college football coaches replying to an Associated Press poll.

Although the trend toward the T continued unabated during 1945 with even such a single wing stalwart as Coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina tinkering with the formation, the consensus seemed to be expressed by Coach Frank Thomas, of Alabama, who said, "the T has seen its best days."

The report was by no means unanimous and there were some violent dissenters as Coach Phil Sorboe, of Washington State, who found the T in its "infancy" and Coach Lou Little, of Columbia, an exponent of a variation called the winged-T, who believes that no sound system ever has reached a peak of development.

Forward passing enjoyed one of its greatest seasons, perhaps because such tossers as Harry Gilmer, of Alabama, Ben Raimondi, of Indiana, and others were on hand to do the throwing. Most of the coaches failed to find any revolutionary results from the rule change that permitted passing at any point behind the line of scrimmage.

Clark Shaughnessy, of Pitt, thought the rule was valuable because it "removed a mental hazard" from the passer who no longer had to worry about being five yards back and Coach Ray Morrison, of Temple echoed the thought.

Hogan Wins With Lead Of 6 Strokes

Orlando, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—Ben Orlando, with the Orlando open golf title to his credit, was $2,000 richer today.

With solid strokes and faultless putting, the 140-pound pro from Hershey, Pa., finished the $10,000 tournament yesterday with a 72-hole score of 270, six strokes ahead of his nearest competitors.

Harold (Jug) McSpaden, of Sanford, Me., and Johnnie Revolta, of Evanston, Ill., each with a 276, pocketed $1,066 apiece.

Yesterday's victory brought to 15 the money tournaments Hogan has won since his army discharge last August and boosted his winnings to $29,000.

Quaker City Women Take Hockey Title

Eryn Mawr, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Unbeaten, untied, and unscored on, the All-Philadelphia first team held the distinction of being the top women's hockey team in the nation today after scoring a double victory to snare the national women's field hockey tournament, first held since Pearl Harbor.

The Quaker City No. 1 eleven drubbed Baltimore 7-0 and edged West Jersey 1-0 yesterday at the Eryn Mawr college field. Previously, the squad had upset Stuyvesant, N. Y., 9-0.

The All-Philadelphia reserves (No. 2 team) and Virginia State also were undefeated in three starts in the two-day tourney but the Philadelphia varsity's efficient team play and scoring prowess won top honors.

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Al Hoosman, the big heavyweight who came out of the army to get the benefit of Jimmy Johnston's publicity efforts, may get his first real test to-night when he faces Lee Savold at St. Nick's. . . . And that leads you to wonder what about the rest of the new boxing talent that supposed to be being developed in service bouts. . . . Nat Fleischer of the ring magazine has the answer. He says the newcomers are performing "beyond expectations" though, naturally, they're nowhere near the top yet. . . . Fleischer ventures a prediction that either Howie Brodt or Laverne Roach, marine middleweights, will be a world champion some day. They both look exceptionally promising. . . .

REDSKINS NEED TO BEAT GIANTS

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—The home office of the National football league sat back and waited today to see what those unpredictable New York Giants would do next Sunday before it scheduled the intra-league play-offs for the world's professional grid championship.

Originally the playoff was scheduled for a week from Sunday, December 16. It may be played on that date—if Washington's Redskins, current leaders of the eastern division, can get past the Giants in the season's finale next Sunday.

Post-Season Game
If they don't Washington and Philadelphia will play a post-season game that day to see which gets a crack at the Cleveland Rams, champions of the western division.

Philadelphia's Eagles and Washington were tied up for first in the eastern division before yesterday's games. Then those Giants, who two weeks ago dumped Detroit out of a possible playoff berth, swept from behind to knock Philadelphia out of a tie with Washington for the eastern division lead. The score, in one of the season's biggest upsets, was 28-21 for the Giants.

If the Giants knock off the Redskins Sunday and if Philadelphia beats the Boston Yanks, a playoff game for the eastern title will be necessary.

Rams Are In
Meanwhile, Cleveland's Rams, who already had clinched the western division title, had little trouble winning from the Boston Yanks, 20-7. Washington gave the Pittsburgh Steelers little chance to score as the Redskins stayed atop the eastern division with a 24-0 shutout.

In other games the Chicago Bears outlasted their southside rivals the Chicago Cardinals, for a 28-20 victory, and Detroit defeated the champion Green Bay Packers, 14-3.

HAS NEW TEAM
Etna, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—It'll be a long, hard grind for Coach Clarence Metzger to bring his Etna high basketball team to the top again this year in the WPIAL, class B division. Last year's defending champions lost four regulars and one promising reserve. The lone varsity hold-over is Guard Jack Ganster.

Etna captured the title last season by defeating East Deer, Youngwood, Ligonier and Avon in tourney play.

ARMY TO HAVE ANOTHER GOOD TEAM IN 1946

By BOB CAVAGNARO

Philadelphia, Dec. 3 (AP)—Just as Army dominated the intercollegiate football seasons of 1944 and 1945, there is a reason to suspect the West Point eleven again will be the team to beat for national gridiron honors next year.

Over the week-end, there was written into the records Army's 32-13 victory over Navy in the 46th meeting between the service academies.

To Navy—an inspired, highly spirited fighting team which gave Army its toughest struggle this year—went the credit of being the only 1945 team to score through the Cadets first-string forward line. The Middles went through it once and played Army on even terms except for the Cadets' three touchdown blast in the first period.

The triumph was Army's 18th consecutive win in two years. The game was the last for three members of the West Point varsity, Captain and Guard John Green, Tackle Al Nemetz and End Dick Pitzer. Seniors, will be graduated next June.

18 Will Graduate
All in all, 18 members of this year's squad of 47 will receive commissions next year, among them are Dick Walter House, the placekicking specialist and Tucker's relief at quarterback and Bob Chabot who saw a lot of ball carrying duty in the Penn and Navy games.

It appears that Blaik's biggest job will be to find rugged replacements for Pitzer, Green and Nemetz, but he has a long list of underclassmen reserves.

It is doubtful that Blaik is worrying about his task for next year. But if he is, there isn't a coach in the country who wouldn't gladly accept Blaik's 1946 team-building responsibilities, especially if they inherited two players like Blanchard and Davis.

KULPMONT WINS EASTERN TITLE

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Dec. 3 (AP)—The last championship has been decided and scholastic football in Pennsylvania is over until 1946.

Kulpmont won the Eastern conference title on Saturday by defeating Larksville 12-7 in a playoff between the northern and southern division winners, waged on a snow-covered gridiron.

With this victory the Wildcats extended their two-year winning streak to 22 straight, 11 each season, and returned the conference crown to the southern division.

Other champions named in 1945 were: East-Central (Big Fifteen) conference, won by Allentown, with undefeated Williamsport as runner-up.

Western Winner
Western conference, won by Huntington's unbeaten Bearcats, with unbeaten Bedford as runner-up.

WPIAL championship, won by Donora for the second straight year, extending a two-year streak to 19 straight.

Big Sixteen (mythical title) won by Erie Academy for second straight year with a record of ten wins and two losses.

Susquehanna Valley league, won by Milton with a record of eleven straight victories.

Lehigh Valley league, won by Northampton.

Lackawanna Valley conference, won by Dunmore.

South Penn conference, won by Hershey.

Philadelphia Title
Public high (Philadelphia), won by Southern; Catholic (Philadelphia), won by West Catholic.

Curwensville, with a record of ten straight victories over some of the leading teams in Central Pennsylvania, claims the mythical Central Pennsylvania championship.

Williamsport kept pace with Kulpmont in the only other game played Saturday, taking off its eleventh straight for the year at the expense of Steelton, 21-7.

Hornets Do Better In Home Contests

(By The Associated Press)
It took a taste of home cooking to get the Pittsburgh Hornets back on the beam in the American hockey league.

A three-week stretch on the road cost the Hornets plenty of chances to move up on the Indianapolis Capitals, current western division leaders.

But since the Hornets got back in their home rink they've been hotter than a blast furnace. They mailed the New Haven Eagles 7-3 Saturday then belted New Haven 5-3 Sunday.

Indianapolis beat St. Louis 6-4 Saturday and tied Cleveland 3-all Sunday.

Hershey halted Buffalo 7-1 Saturday but dropped a 4-2 decision to Providence Sunday. Buffalo rebounded from its defeat and massacred St. Louis 12-4 Sunday.

The loop will be inactive until Tuesday when New Haven visits St. Louis.

Williams Warned Must Fight Soon

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—The National Boxing association has warned lightweight champion Ike Williams to sign for a championship bout by January 1 or face loss of his crown.

President Abe Greene said Williams "hasn't defended his title since last April when he won it from Juan Zurita in Mexico. I understand negotiations are under way for a Williams-Willie Joyce title match. All I can say is, it better be closed before January 1."

The boxing group also decided to notify all returned servicemen champions whose title had been frozen while they were in the services that they must sign up for championship bouts by June 1. This decision affects three titleholders, light heavyweight Gus Lesnevich, middleweight Tony Zale and bantamweight Manuel Ortiz.

The early opening is due to combining last year's section six and seven into one group of 11 strong Monongahela Valley teams, necessitating a longer playing season.

The rivals this year for the section title, in addition to Wilkesburg and Turtle Creek, are Homestead, Munhall, McKeesport, Duquesne, Clairton, Scott, Braddock, Rankin and Swissvale.

Eight teams swing into action tomorrow night with Swissvale at McKeesport, Munhall at Scott, Rankin at Clairton, and Braddock at Duquesne.

Goering Sorry He Missed 'That Dog'

Nuernberg, Dec. 3 (AP)—Reichsmarshal Herman Goering was reported today to be "considerably upset" over the damaging testimony given for the prosecution by Gen. Erwin Lahousen, former German counter intelligence officer.

Goering was reported to have turned to Field Marshal Keitel during Lahousen's testimony and said: "My God, we overlooked that dog on July 20th."

He apparently was referring to the purge which followed the attempt to assassinate Hitler on July 20, 1944.

WRONG AGAIN

San Francisco, (AP)—It's still 19 days before the shortest day of the year, but you're wrong if you think the afternoons are getting shorter, according to the weatherman. They won't be a minute shorter next week than they are now, and by the time the shortest day arrives we'll actually have five more minutes of p. m. daylight than we have now. That, the weatherman explains, is because next week the sun starts setting later each day, although it will continue to rise later in the morning until January 20, when we will have the season's shortest morning.

AMVETS SEEK NEW LAWS FOR WAR VETERANS

Harrisburg, Dec. 3 (AP)—A special session of the Legislature was urged by the executive committee of the American Veterans of World War II as an aid to returning servicemen seeking to resume civilian life.

The AMVETS voted at a meeting here yesterday to send a telegram to Governor Martin urging that "the state of Pennsylvania should take the lead in enacting needed veterans legislation."

Advocating a five-point program to ease the problem of veteran rehabilitation the AMVETS sought action on the following subjects:

1. Legislation to liberalize the state's banking, building and loans, and trust investment laws so that loans could more readily be made to veterans;

2. Preference for veterans in filling vacancies in public employment and in securing licenses and franchises to go into various types of business.

3. Protection for the large number of psychoneurotic veterans who are becoming involved in criminal cases, especially legislation to make state and county hospitals available to veterans during the current shortage of veteran hospitals.

4. A discharge bonus to enable veterans to purchase clothing and furniture needed to resume civilian life.

5. Legislation to make it mandatory on local school districts to provide every opportunity for veterans.

MORE MONARCHS JOIN RANKS OF 'UNEMPLOYED'

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

London, Dec. 3.—Another monarch will have joined the swelling ranks of the royal unemployed if Albania's general election of yesterday bears out its promise, for the success of Premier Enver Hoxha's democratic front is generally taken to mean the exit of the colorful King Zog, now a refugee in England.

When the second world war began there were five kings ruling in the Balkan kingdoms—Greece, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania and Albania. Now there is only one on his throne—youthful King Mihai of Romania, who has stuck out his stubborn jaw and refused to be budged from his heritage. And one wonders how long Mihai will be able to bare his head to the leftist storm which is sweeping his kingdom. Of course, the case of King George of Greece hasn't yet been definitely settled, but it will be an amazing thing if he is ever recalled from his exile in England.

All In Same Hotel
It's some 21 years ago that young Ahmed Zogu, sword at side, rode out of the pages of a medieval story book of adventure and headed a revolt which ousted Bishop Fan S. Noli, who had been governing the country through a parliament of sorts. A couple of years later parliament changed the constitution to permit Zogu to mount the throne as King Zog I, and he zogged along successfully until the exigencies of the world war drove him out. The United States will remember his visit in 1940 with his two attractive sisters.

Now Zog, George of Greece and Peter of Yugoslavia—who also has been ousted from his throne—have sanctuary here in England. As a matter of fact they have headquarters in the same hotel, and when Peter got his dismissal last week, George of Greece called to sympathize with him.

It must be tough to lose a throne. I lost a bright sixpence on a bus this morning and the Scotch blood within me still runs hot because of it.

CLAIMS SHORT MESSAGE WAS "INADEQUATE"

By JACK BELL

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Sherman A. Miles said today that the reply Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short made from Hawaii on November 28, 1941 to a war warning message from Washington was "totally inadequate."

Miles testified before the Senate-House group investigating Pearl Harbor, Thursday the committee is to hear General of the Army George C. Marshall who sent the warning message.

Evidence was cited by Rep. Clark (D-NC) that on November 27 Marshall warned Short that "hostile action is possible at any moment" and to take reconnaissance and such other measures "as you deem necessary."

Island Alerted

Filed as a reply was word from Short to Marshall the next day that the Hawaiian Department was "alerted to prevent sabotage."

"Was that in any way responsive?" asked Clark.

Miles, who was head of army intelligence at the time of Pearl Harbor, demurred. He said he would like that question to be directed to officers who saw the reply. He named these as Secretary of War Stimson, General Marshall and the chief of the war plans division, Gen. Leonard T. Gerow.

But Clark persisted saying that he wanted Miles' opinion as a military man of long experience.

"Very well, sir," replied Miles. "My opinion is that that message was a totally inadequate reply to the message it purported to reply to."

Miles continued that while the Short message did not say that only steps against sabotage had been taken, "there is an intimation of that." He said a reference by Short to liaison with the Navy "might or might not" indicate that the general was planning a later message covering other actions.

Miles previously testified he considered General George C. Marshall's Nov. 27, 1941 message "sufficient warning to cause the necessary and proper alert to be put into effect" to meet the Japanese Pearl Harbor attack.

Under questioning by Reps. Cooper (D-Tenn) and Clark (D-NC), Miles told a Senate-House inquiry committee he regarded the message of Marshall, then chief of staff, as word to the Hawaiian fortress that "the situation you were built for has arrived, be on the alert."

NAVY CAPTAIN FACES COURT ON LOSS OF SHIP

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—The navy formally accused Capt. Charles B. McVay, III, today of negligence and culpable inefficiency in the loss of the 10,000-ton cruiser Indianapolis in the closing days of the war. He is a native of Ephrata, Pa.

The charges were prepared for the opening session of a general court martial convened at the Washington Navy Yard to try the 47-year-old son of a retired admiral.

Every man aboard the Indianapolis was a casualty when enemy action sent her to the bottom of the Philippine sea last July 30. Dead or missing totaled 880, the wounded 316.

Signed by Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, the charges made public for the first time as the seven-man military tribunal convened, accused McVay of:

Faces Two Charges
1. "Through negligence suffering a vessel of the navy to be hazarded," and

2. "Culpable inefficiency in the performance of duty."

Under the first charge, the captain was accused specifically of neglecting "to cause zigzag course to be steered" through an area in which enemy submarines "might be encountered."

Under the second charge, he was accused of failing, after being informed that the ship was in a sinking condition, "to issue and see effected such timely orders as were necessary to cause said vessel to be abandoned, as it was his duty to do."

As a result, the specifications set forth, "many persons on board perished with the sinking of said vessel."

Challenge Charge

As the court martial opened, counsel for Captain McVay challenged the first of the two charges—negligence in that the officer neglected to put the cruiser on a zigzag course through submarine infested waters. The defense said "the first charge fails to state an offense, it merely sets out a conclusion."

The challenge sent the court into private sessions and after a ten-minute conference Admiral Wilder Baker announced that the challenge had been rejected and the court martial would proceed on the original charges.

Admiral Baker explained that the court instructions stated it was not essential to assert in a specification that the accused committed a breach of federal statute or naval regulations.

He said the court found the charges and specifications in due form and technically correct.

Counsel for the accused, when asked if he was ready to proceed, requested a postponement of one day to complete the preparation of his case, and the court adjourned until 10:00 a. m. tomorrow.

GERMAN HATRED BREEDING MOVE FOR RESISTANCE

By JAMES F. KING

Frankfurt, Dec. 3 (AP)—German resentment against American occupation methods is developing gradually into bitter hatred which is giving rise to increasing talk of resistance, according to a survey made by U. S. intelligence officers.

An outstanding source of resentment, the survey found, is the conviction that the American military administration is suffering from a lack of policy which the Germans hold responsible for much injustice and confusion.

This conviction, it was said, is shared by many of the clergy who profess pro-Allied sympathies.

Results of the survey, undertaken in an effort to obtain some light on "the German view," were embodied in a 20,000-word report made public yesterday.

Suffered Enough

In general, the investigators found that the Germans seem to feel that they have suffered enough, whatever their crimes.

"Whatever material losses were inflicted on other countries, Germany has lost more," is the way the average German seems to feel, the report said.

It pictured Germany as a land of groaners, and quoted one civil servant as saying "the only thing Germans would be able really to agree on would be some form of resistance."

The report disclosed that the council of the Evangelical Church in Germany had made a formal protest to the inter-Allied control council charging injustices in the denazification program.

May Form Vigilantes

"This campaign as we see it in the American zone will not exterminate Hitlerism," the protest said. "Indeed danger exists that Hitlerism will win new adherents."

Both clergy and laymen were reported of the opinion that American policy is "resentful of the church's position as a defender of rights and suspicious of the church as an educational force."

The clergymen also protested against "the freedom accorded Poles and other foreigners when they take their revenge on the German people for evils which the Nazis inflicted on them."

There has been some talk among Germans of organizing vigilante groups to combat depredations by displaced persons, the survey said. There also has been talk of organizing similar groups "to punish fraternizing women."

To secure a continuous indoor bloom throughout the winter, start a bowl or two of paper white narcissus at intervals of about ten days.

Ventilate and keep at a reasonably low temperature the cellar where the vegetables are store.

To prevent winter rot and slug damage to delphiniums, cover the crowns with coal ashes after the ground freezes.

Set out bird-feeding stations in a warm, sheltered spot, but sufficiently in the open to eliminate the possibility of attack from cats.

52,206 Examined In School Tests

Harrisburg, Dec. 3 (AP)—Reports received by the state Health Department disclosed that 52,206 school children received physical examinations and 35,011 were given dental check-ups during September and October.

The examinations were given under provisions of the new school health law which became effective with the opening of the fall term in September.

Dr. Harry W. Weest, state secretary of health, said that exams were given to pupils in the first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth and eleventh grades under terms of the program that requires that each school child be tested once every two years.

State approval was granted to plans for examinations in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the state's first class school districts.

Plans for carrying out the program have also been approved for 16 of the state's 20 second class districts, and for 219 of the 279 third class districts.

The program for the rural, or fourth class districts, has been delayed by lack of trained personnel but Dr. Weest anticipated that with the return of doctors, dentists and nurses from the armed services this part of the program could be speeded up within the next few months.

LIGHTS MAY NOT GO OUT IN STRIKE

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—The lights may not go out on 28 Keystone state counties served by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company, says John W. Thomas, chairman of the Employees Independent association whose 4,550 members voted to strike.

"There'll be no sense to a strike," Thomas asserted, if the National Labor relations board orders an immediate election to determine a bargaining agent for the firm's 6,000 workers.

Two other unions besides the Independent, unaffiliated group seek bargaining rights. They are the Utility workers Union (CIO) and District 50, United Mine Workers of America.

M. Michael Essin, senior field examiner of the NLRB's fourth regional district, will hold a meeting in Philadelphia Friday to set a date for the election.

The EIA workers voted 3 to 1 Friday for a strike which would affect more than 3,000,000 persons in the 28-county area. Company officials indicated a strike would not cut off all power because of tie-ins with other power firms.

The strike vote resulted when the utility refused to bargain with the EIA over wage increases. The company said it could not negotiate with any union until after the NLRB-conducted bargaining election.

Winter Dangers To Strawberries

Few other domesticated plants of this latitude are as tender and succulent as the strawberry. The leaves are subject to frost injury any time before cold weather arrives. However, a few cold days or even cool nights and reduced hours of sunshine during late September and early October usually harden the foliage sufficiently to enable the plants to withstand winter's rigors. It is this hardening effect which growers must understand in order to know when and how to apply protective mulches.

The need for mulching strawberries is urgent under three general conditions: (1) Where winter temperatures go below 15 degrees above zero at any time; (2) where alternate freezing and thawing cause heaving; and (3) where the ground freezes or the temperature drops below 20 degrees without a blanket of protecting snow.

Often a temperature of 15 degrees or slightly lower causes the crown center to turn brown and this browning extends down into the main roots, rendering the plants useless the following season. Or alternate freezing and thawing, especially in heavy clay loams, heaves the plants, breaking the roots or lifting them loose from their anchorage. It is to prevent these injuries to the crown and roots and to protect the fruit buds that an over-winter mulch is applied.

The time to apply mulches arrives somewhat earlier than that for roses, asparagus, peonies and other food and ornamental perennials. It can be determined quite easily by each grower. In most cases a few days of cold weather wherein the temperature goes to 20 degrees are sufficient to harden the plants. Then the mulch should be applied before colder weather causes the evils already described. In this region mulching time occurs after the middle of November and before a temperature of 15 degrees or lower has been reached. Of course, too early mulching (before the plants are hardened) may prove as injurious as too late mulching.

Wheat straw and marsh hay are the two best materials for this particular role, although pine needles are satisfactory. The main idea is to apply a mulch that remains light and airy and does not pack down and become sodden. Tests show that unpacked snow is as good a protection as a similar depth of wheat straw, although in this area there is seldom enough snow to provide this benefit.

From two to 2½ tons of straw to the acre is sufficient to afford adequate protection. Straw manure may be employed where the soil is not too fertile to lead to over-stimulation of top growth from the added nourishment. But on poorer soils and for varieties such as the Chesapeake, which permit heavy fertilization, manure may be used safely. Many growers sow a plot of Sudan grass for late summer pasturage and then save the final cutting for strawberry mulching.

The bulk of the mulch should be removed to the centers of the rows as soon as spring growth starts, with a light covering left over the rows. The plants will grow readily through this and the material will later protect the fruits from contamination by grit during rains. In fact, many southern growers, where there is no need to mulch strawberries for winter protection, practice this method solely to keep the fruits clean and to reduce cultivation labors for control of weeds and grass.

FALL PLANTING GIVES LILIES SPRING START

Hardy garden lilies, available now and in the spring, may be planted safely as long as it is possible to dig the soil pockets for their planting, says the New York Herald-Tribune.

Those sold for spring delivery are held in storage over the winter and plantmen are about agreed that the very best storage place is in mother earth. No matter how well storage is regulated, there is bound to be a certain amount of dehydration, with the added danger of disease spreading if prevalent, so that fall planting is the smart thing to do.

Though lilies like to be protected from the wind, at the same time they demand an open, sunny location. The south side of a shrubbery planting or building is ideal. Keep the planting away from the roots of shrubs or trees lest they rob the lilies of needed food.

Demand Well Drained Soil

Next in importance to proper location of the planting is drainage. Even though some lilies thrive along the bank of a stream, they demand good drainage and will not thrive in a location where they have to endure water standing around their roots. If drainage is not good, dig the pockets six inches deeper than necessary for planting, and fill in the excess space with gravel, cinders or even broken crockery.

As lilies enjoy shaded soil around their stems, their planting this fall may be followed next spring with a planting of low-growing, shallow-rooting perennials or annuals around the clumps or groups. These growths shade and keep the soil cool, but will not interfere with the progress of the plant. Naturally, one should select varieties not only similar in habit of growth but in colors which will complement the color of the lilies.

In digging the soil pocket for planting, be sure and place some of the top soil below the bulb so that the root may grow into a rich soil mixture. Directly around the bulb and on top of it, place pure washed sand to avoid any rotting.

Planting Depends on Type

Various types of lilies demand different planting depths, but a good rule to remember is that the stem-rooting types need deep planting as they form roots along their stems, whereas, base rooting varieties should be shallowly planted. Many stem-rooting kinds are best planted as deep as ten inches, while base-rooting types may be planted as shallow as four inches, with Lillium candidum as shallow as two inches to the top of the bulb.

Manures and plant foods are best kept away from the bulbs at plant-

CONCRETE FOR TERRACES MAY BE MADE NOW

Home-ground designs for modern living include a large paved terrace on which to arrange furniture for outdoor lounging and dining. It is practical for many garden builders to manufacture concrete units to surface such an area attractively, right in their basement, heated garage or tool house this winter, says the New York Herald Tribune. They are useful also for surfacing walks and stepping-stone paths. Paving stone made gradually, while the weather is unfit for work outdoors, may be quickly put in place next spring.

The square is a working shape, easy to combine in a paving, large or small. The units should be large enough to lay solidly, but not so large that their weight will make them difficult to handle. Eighteen x eighteen inches is a good average ing time, but both may be applied early next spring and worked into the soil around the base of the plants as they burst into growth. Mulching is hardly necessary if the bulbs have been planted properly. However, if desired, once the soil is frozen, any of the commercial mulches or even well rotted manures may be applied.

Varieties now available show lots of opportunity to enjoy lilies over several months of the gardening season. They include Canadense flavum (meadow lily), philippinense, regale, Speciosum album and rubrum, superbum (Turks-cap), Tenifolium (coral lily), Testaceum (Nankeen lily), Tigrinum splendens (tiger lily), auratum and henryi.

size. Forms made of dressed 1x4-inch boards and 2x4s will give a correct thickness of 3½ to 3¾ inches.

Construction of Forms

Forms for casting the stones are built so they may be taken apart easily to remove the finished units, be cleaned and made ready to receive a new batch of concrete. The 4½x5½ foot platform of ¾-inch plywood or one-inch boards nailed to 2x4 sills and the three stop and three wedge blocks are the only fixed members. All others may be taken apart.

The ends of the 2x4 outside forms and 1x4 partition boards fit into slots and are held secure by the three sets of wedges. When the wedges are removed the forms may be pulled apart. All surfaces coming in contact with the poured concrete are sanded smooth and coated before each batch with old crankcase oil.

A mixture of one part cement, two parts sand and three parts fine gravel or crushed stone, not larger than one inch in diameter, is recommended for this type of work. For convenience in mixing for this six-unit form use a bottomless measuring box having 12½x7½-inch inside dimensions. One measure of cement, two measures of sand and three measures of fine gravel will make a batch that will fill the forms once.

Give the top of each stone a sand-float finish to produce an even surface, but one sufficiently gritty not to be slippery when wet. A steel trowel will give too smooth a finish. The wooden float is made from a 6x12-inch piece of board. Forms may be removed after twenty-four hours, but the stones should be stacked where they may be kept cool and damp for a ten-day curing period. Before they become too hard rub the top edges and corners with a hard brick to give a slightly worn or weathered appearance. Just one or two batches turned out each week throughout the winter will provide enough material for a sizable paving next spring.

Drainage Base Needed.

The most serviceable floor on which to handle furniture easily is made by laying the units with ½ to ¾ inch open joints on a ½-inch bed of mortar, over a six to eight inch drainage base of tamped cinders, gravel or scrap stone. The open joints are then filled with a dry mixture of one part cement and two parts sand, and wet carefully

Garden Activities For Early December

Gardeners with grape arbors may prune the vines now, or in February before the sap begins to flow.

Wherever there is danger of injury from rabbits, protect young trees with wire netting or wrap several thicknesses of burlap or waterproof paper around the lower part of the trunk.

Mulching material should be prepared without delay, to be put in place after the soil is frozen an inch or two deep.

with a fine spray from the hose.

Stones of this size and weight also may be laid on a ½-inch to one-inch sand cushion over the drainage base with ½-inch joints filled with sand. In well drained soil, paths or terrace pavings may be laid directly on the soil after excavating the depth of the stone. Stone laid directly in the soil may have joints up to two or three inches wide, filled with sod or paving plants. Varying amounts of winter heaving must be expected when the stones are laid directly on the soil.

GERMAN HATRED BREEDING MOVE FOR RESISTANCE

By JAMES F. KING
Frankfurt, Dec. 3 (AP)—German resentment against American occupation methods is developing gradually into bitter hatred which is giving rise to increasing talk of resistance, according to a survey made by U. S. intelligence officers.

An outstanding source of resentment, the survey found, is the conviction that the American military administration is suffering from a lack of policy which the Germans hold responsible for much injustice and confusion.

This conviction, it was said, is shared by many of the clergy who profess pro-Allied sympathies.

Results of the survey, undertaken in an effort to obtain some light on "the German view," were embodied in a 20,000-word report made public yesterday.

Suffered Enough
In general, the investigators found that the Germans seem to feel that they have suffered enough, whatever their crimes.

"Whatever material losses were inflicted on other countries, Germany has lost more," is the way the average German seems to feel, the report said.

It pictured Germany as a land of groaners, and quoted one civil servant as saying "the only thing Germans would be able really to agree on would be some form of resistance."

The report disclosed that the council of the Evangelical Church in Germany had made a formal protest to the inter-Allied control council charging injustices in the denazification program.

May Form Vigilantes
"This campaign as we see it in the American zone will not exterminate Hitlerism," the protest said. "Indeed danger exists that Hitlerism will win new adherents."

Both clergy and laymen were reported of the opinion that American policy is "resentful of the church's position as a defender of rights and suspicious of the church as an educational force."

The clergymen also protested against "the freedom accorded Poles and other foreigners when they take their revenge on the German people for evils which the Nazis inflicted on them."

There has been some talk among Germans of organizing vigilante groups to combat depredations by displaced persons, the survey said. There also has been talk of organizing similar groups "to punish fraternizing women."

To secure a continuous indoor bloom throughout the winter, start a bowl or two of paper white narcissus at intervals of about ten days.

Ventilate and keep at a reasonably low temperature the cellar where the vegetables are stored.

To prevent winter rot and slug damage to delphiniums, cover the crowns with coal ashes after the ground freezes.

Set out bird-feeding stations in a warm, sheltered spot, but sufficiently in the open to eliminate the possibility of attack from cats.

52,206 Examined In School Tests

Harrisburg, Dec. 3 (AP)—Reports received by the state Health Department disclosed that 52,206 school children received physical examinations and 35,011 were given dental check-ups during September and October.

The examinations were given under provisions of the new school health law which became effective with the opening of the fall term in September.

Dr. Harry W. Weest, state secretary of health, said that exams were given to pupils in the first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth and eleventh grades under terms of the program that requires that each school child be tested once every two years.

State approval was granted to plans for examinations in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the state's two first class school districts.

Plans for carrying out the program have also been approved for 16 of the state's 20 second class districts, and for 219 of the 279 third class districts.

The program for the rural, or fourth class districts, has been delayed by lack of trained personnel but Dr. Weest anticipated that with the return of doctors, dentists and nurses from the armed services this part of the program could be speeded up within the next few months.

LIGHTS MAY NOT GO OUT IN STRIKE

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—The lights may not go out on 28 Keystone state counties served by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company, says John W. Thomas, chairman of the Employees Independent association whose 4,550 members voted to strike.

"There'll be no sense to a strike," Thomas asserted, if the National Labor relations board orders an immediate election to determine a bargaining agent for the firm's 6,000 workers.

Two other unions besides the Independent, unaffiliated group seek bargaining rights. They are the Utility Workers Union (CIO) and District 50, United Mine Workers of America.

M. Michael Essin, senior field examiner of the NLRB's fourth regional district, will hold a meeting in Philadelphia Friday to set a date for the election.

The EIA workers voted 3 to 1 Friday for a strike which would affect more than 3,000,000 persons in the 28-county area. Company officials indicated a strike would not cut off all power because of tie-ins with other power firms.

The strike vote resulted when the utility refused to bargain with the EIA over wage increases. The company said it could not negotiate with any union until after the NLRB-conducted bargaining election.

FALL PLANTING GIVES LILIES SPRING START

Hardy garden lilies, available now and in the spring, may be planted safely as long as it is possible to dig the soil pockets for their planting, says the New York Herald-Tribune.

Those sold for spring delivery are held in storage over the winter and plantmen are about agreed that the very best storage place is in mother earth. No matter how well storage is regulated, there is bound to be a certain amount of dehydration, with the added danger of disease spreading if prevalent, so that fall planting is the smart thing to do.

Though lilies like to be protected from the wind, at the same time they demand an open, sunny location. The south side of a shrubby planting or building is ideal. Keep the planting away from the roots of shrubs or trees lest they rob the lilies of needed food.

Demand Well Drained Soil
Next in importance to proper location of the planting is drainage. Even though some lilies thrive along the bank of a stream, they demand good drainage and will not thrive in a location where they have to endure water standing around their roots. If drainage is not good, dig the pockets six inches deeper than necessary for planting, and fill in the excess space with gravel, cinders or even broken crockery.

As lilies enjoy shaded soil around their stems, their planting this fall may be followed next spring with a planting of low-growing, shallow-rooting perennials or annuals around the clumps or groups. These growths shade and keep the soil cool, but will not interfere with the progress of the plant. Naturally, one should select varieties not only similar in habit of growth but in colors which will complement the color of the lilies.

In digging the soil pocket for planting, be sure and place some of the top soil below the bulb so that the root may grow into a rich soil mixture. Directly around the bulb and on top of it, place pure washed sand to avoid any rotting.

Planting Depends on Type
Various types of lilies demand different planting depths, but a good rule to remember is that the stem-rooting types need deep planting as they form roots along their stems, whereas, base-rooting varieties should be shallowly planted. Many stem-rooting kinds are best planted as deep as ten inches, while base-rooting types may be planted as shallow as four inches, with Lilium candidum as shallow as two inches to the top of the bulb.

Manures and plant foods are best kept away from the bulbs at plant-

CONCRETE FOR TERRACES MAY BE MADE NOW

Home-ground designs for modern living include a large paved terrace on which to arrange furniture for outdoor lounging and dining. It is practical for many garden builders to manufacture concrete units to surface such an area attractively, right in their basement, heated garage or tool house this winter, says the New York Herald-Tribune. They are useful also for surfacing walks and stepping-stone paths. Paving stone made gradually, while the weather is unfit for work outdoors, may be quickly put in place next spring.

The square is a working shape, easy to combine in a paving, large or small. The units should be large enough to lay solidly, but not so large that their weight will make them difficult to handle. Eighteen x eighteen inches is a good average size, but both may be applied early next spring and worked into the soil around the base of the plants as they burst into growth. Mulching is hardly necessary if the bulbs have been planted properly. However, if desired, once the soil is frozen, any of the commercial mulches or even well rotted manures may be applied.

Varieties now available show lots of opportunity to enjoy lilies over several months of the gardening season. They include Canadense flavum (meadow lily), philippinense, regale, Speciosum album and rubrum, superbum (Turks-cap), Tenulfolium (coral lily), Testaceum (Narcissus), Tigrinum splendens (tiger lily), auratum and henryi.

size. Forms made of dressed 1x4-inch boards and 2x4s will give a correct thickness of 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 inches.

Construction of Forms
Forms for casting the stones are built so they may be taken apart easily to remove the finished units, be cleaned and made ready to receive a new batch of concrete. The 4 1/2 x 5 1/2 foot platform of 3/4-inch plywood or one-inch boards nailed to 2x4 sills and the three stop and three wedge blocks are the only fixed members. All others may be taken apart.

The ends of the 2x4 outside forms and 1x4 partition boards fit into slots and are held secure by the three sets of wedges. When the wedges are removed the forms may be pulled apart. All surfaces coming in contact with the poured concrete are sanded smooth and coated before each batch with old crankcase oil.

A mixture of one part cement, two parts sand and three parts fine gravel or crushed stone, not larger than one inch in diameter, is recommended for this type of work. For convenience in mixing for this six-unit form use a bottomless measuring box having 12x12x3/4-inch inside dimensions. One measure of cement, two measures of sand and three measures of fine gravel will make a batch that will fill the forms once.

Give the top of each stone a sand-float finish to produce an even surface, but one sufficiently gritty not to be slippery when wet. A steel trowel will give too smooth a finish. The wooden float is made from a 6x12-inch piece of board. Forms may be removed after twenty-four hours, but the stones should be stacked where they may be kept cool and damp for a ten-day curing period. Before they become too hard rub the top edges and corners with a hard brick to give a slightly worn or weathered appearance. Just one or two batches turned out each week throughout the winter will provide enough material for a sizable paving next spring.

Drainage Base Needed.
The most serviceable floor on which to lay the units easily is made by laying the units with 1/2 to 3/4 inch open joints on a 1 1/2-inch bed of mortar, over a six to eight inch drainage base of tamped cinders, gravel or scrap stone. The open joints are then filled with a dry mixture of one part cement and two parts sand, and wet carefully

Garden Activities For Early December

Gardeners with grape arbors may prune the vines now, or in February before the sap begins to flow.

Wherever there is danger of injury from rabbits, protect young trees with wire netting or wrap several thicknesses of burlap or waterproof paper around the lower part of the trunk.

Mulching material should be prepared without delay, to be put in place after the soil is frozen an inch or two deep.

With a fine spray from the hose. Stones of this size and weight also may be laid on a 1/2-inch to one-inch sand cushion over the drainage base with 1/2-inch joints filled with sand. In well drained soil, paths or terrace pavings may be laid directly on the soil after excavating the depth of the stone. Stone laid directly in the soil may have joints up to two or three inches wide, filled with sod or paving plants. Varying amounts of winter heaving must be expected when the stones are laid directly on the soil.

Holes for posts needed to support protection for the less hardy shrubs should be dug now while the soil is still frost-free.

Cover the crowns of the buddleia plants with a half-bushel of soil for winter protection.

Winter Dangers To Strawberries
Few other domesticated plants of this latitude are as tender and succulent as the strawberry. The leaves are subject to frost injury any time before cold weather arrives. However, a few cold days, or even cold nights and reduced hours of sunshine during late September and early October usually harden the foliage sufficiently to enable the plants to withstand winter's rigors. It is this hardening effect which growers must understand in order to know when and how to apply protective mulches.

The need for mulching strawberries is urgent under three general conditions: (1) Where winter temperatures go below 15 degrees above zero at any time; (2) where alternate freezing and thawing cause heaving; and (3) where the ground freezes or the temperature drops below 20 degrees without a blanket of protecting snow.

Often a temperature of 15 degrees, or slightly lower causes the crown center to turn brown and this browning extends down into the main roots, rendering the plants useless the following season. Or alternate freezing and thawing, especially in heavy clay loams, heaves the plants, breaking the roots or lifting them loose from their anchorage. It is to prevent these injuries to the crown and roots and to protect the fruit buds that an over-winter mulch is applied.

The time to apply mulches arrives, somewhat earlier than that for roses, asparagus, peonies and other food and ornamental perennials. It can be determined quite easily by each grower. In most cases a few days of cold weather wherein the temperature goes to 20 degrees are sufficient to harden the plants. Then the mulch should be applied before colder weather causes the evils already described. In this region mulching time occurs after the middle of November and before a temperature of 15 degrees or lower has been reached. Of course, too early mulching (before the plants are hardened) may prove as injurious as too late mulching.

Wheat straw and marsh hay are the two best materials for this particular role, although pine needles are satisfactory. The main idea is to apply a mulch that remains light and airy and does not pack down and become sodden. Tests show that unpacked snow is as good a protection as a similar depth of wheat straw, although in this area there is seldom enough snow to provide this benefit.

From two to 2 1/2 tons of straw to the acre is sufficient to afford adequate protection. Straw, manure may be employed where the soil is not too fertile to lead to over-stimulation of top growth from the added nourishment. But on poorer soils and for varieties such as the Chesapeake, which permit heavy fertilization, manure may be used safely. Many growers sow a plot of Sudan grass for late summer pasturage and then save the final cutting for strawberry mulching.

The bulk of the mulch should be removed to the centers of the rows as soon as spring growth starts, with a light covering left over the rows. The plants will grow readily through this and the material will later protect the fruits from contamination by grit during rains. In fact, many southern growers, where there is no need to mulch strawberries for winter protection, practice this method solely to keep the fruits clean and to reduce cultivation labor for control of weeds and grass.

BYRNES AWAITS FULL REPORT ON BALKAN STATUS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Associated Press Diplomatic News Editor)

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes is slated to receive a first-hand report this week on political conditions in the Soviet-controlled Balkan countries of Bulgaria and Romania.

There is no prospect, according to diplomatic information here, that the information he gets will bring any quick improvement in American-Russian relations.

The report will come from Mark Ethridge, Louisville, Ky., publisher whom Byrnes sent to the Balkans about six weeks ago to gather facts for a review of American policy of refusing to recognize the Romanian and Bulgarian governments.

Favors Non-Recognition
Ethridge is returning by way of Rome, but in his preliminary dispatches to the State Department he has indicated clearly that his full report will support the non-recognition policy—based on the contention that the governments of Bucharest and Sofia are not truly representative of the people.

The Balkan situation thus moves back into the diplomatic spotlight at a time when events in Iran, another point of friction between Russia and the western Allies, also appear to be getting more instead of less complicated.

A Moscow report last night said Russia has turned down the United States proposal of a week ago that Russia and Britain as well as this country withdraw all troops from the little Middle Eastern country by January 1.

Some Bright Spots
While dispatches from Tehran said 2,000 American troops had arrived as replacements for men going home for discharge, State Department officials said it still is the intention of this country to get all its troops out of Iran by the first of the year.

While the Balkans and Iran are causing trouble and there is considerable expectation that serious disputes also will develop very soon over Turkey and the Dardanelles, there actually are some bright spots in the picture.

One is the agreement by which Russian and American troops are being withdrawn completely from Czechoslovakia.

Another is the high degree of cooperation in Austria, in contrast with the confusion among the Allied rulers of Germany.

A third is the progress made in eliminating the Soviet-American division of Korea.

Picture Brighter In Talon Strike

Meadville, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Favorable progress toward settlement of a dispute that has forced shutdown of Talon, Inc. plants here and at Erie was reported today by Henry E. Weley, negotiating chairman of Local 110, AFL-Tool and Die Makers.

Worley said a wage proposal offered by the company Friday night had been voted on by Local 110 members yesterday.

At Erie, A. E. Ross, business agent of the Tool and Die Makers Local 116, said the measure was to come before a union meeting today (1 p. m.).

Neither the union nor the company would disclose details of the proposal.

Worley said the next step would be a meeting with the company to consider "the remaining phases of the contract." He said these dealt mainly with working conditions.

"That might take three hours and it might take three days," the union spokesman declared, adding:

"After that the entire contract will be brought back for approval of the full union membership."

Deer Take Reported Below Expectations

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Game protectors N. M. Ruhla, of Cambria county, and Millard Crooks, of Somerset county, said the district's deer kill has been "fairly good," but "not quite up to expectations."

A six to seven inch snow in the mountains and poor visibility has kept the kill down.

The game protectors added that it might have been better, but the hunters have not been driving. "They're content to let someone else drive the deer out while they sit and wait."

HUNTING FATALITY

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Forty-five minutes after opening of the deer hunting season Saturday, Ray Yeager, 30, of St. Boniface, was killed near here by a stray rifle bullet. Yeager, hunting with his two brothers, had climbed a tree and was watching for deer when the bullet struck him in the stomach.

Chapter 18

[Monday 4 p. m. to 7:20 p. m.]
Julia would have fled if she could but a short struggle demonstrated that she could not break the detective's grip on her arm. It was embarrassing to have the persons in the office staring at her. A feeling of utter hopelessness took possession of her.

"Am I under arrest?" she finally managed to ask, reasoning bitterly that she had the inspector to thank for this. It was queer how they had found her so easily when she had been sure that she wasn't being followed.

"No. Oh, no, Miss," the detective reassured her as if the idea were preposterous. That was the only thing he said, the ride to headquarters being completely silent.

Arrived there things were managed very strangely, she considered. She was taken into a large office and a fat man behind a paper-piled desk asked for her name and address. After Julia gave it he did not write it down on the form but stood up staring at her. A girl on the other side of him at a smaller desk opened her mouth and her gum spilled out. The detective who had brought her in said, "Geeemee!"

"She doesn't look like her pictures in that get-up," said the girl. Why didn't they know who I am? Julia wondered.

She was hustled out through some corridors and into another room. It was small and orderly and she was given a comfortable leather chair. The detective who had brought her took a straight chair near the door and leaned forward, his hands resting on his knees.

There were a thousand questions she wanted to ask him but somehow she didn't dare break the silence. Time ticked on.

The one window in the office faced a square ventilating well. It was clean but there was nothing to see through it except other office windows. Daylight grew dim and dusk settled over the room.

She thought this must be the third degree. They expected her to break down under the pressure of silence and darkness. Her nerves felt like clamps that held her fingernails pressed into the palms of her hands and her feet pushed against the floor. Just when she thought she must cry out the door opened.

A man entered and snapped on the lights.
"For heaven's sake, Brown! You holding a séance?" Inspector Venable said irritably.

"Musta' dozed off," muttered Brown.

"Mrs. Baker, you gave me an awful scare." His manner was brisk and ignored entirely the scene they had had that morning. He stood looking down at her for a moment, then swung into the chair back of the desk. He picked up the phone and told some one to send in a stenographer.

"I've been looking for you," he said when he had hung up. "Don't you know it just makes it worse when you try to get away?"

"I had something to do."

"Yes. You walked right into another case."

Before she could ponder on this a young man entered the room and after a nod from Venable he took a chair at the side of the desk and flopped open a book.

"Mrs. Baker, who is the woman with the red hat?"

"I don't know. You see—"

"Let me remind you that I'm having a record made and anything you say may be used."

The words smote her. The same warning was given murderers.

"Do you think I should get a lawyer?" she asked breathlessly.

"Do you need one?"

She looked straight into his eyes.

"No."

"I seek only justice. If you aren't guilty you don't need a lawyer."

At that moment she believed him.

"I only saw her across the street," she began slowly. "I was standing at my window that faces Central Park. She was at the north wall of the park talking to my husband. He gave her some money." She didn't need to tell about the paper the woman had given Robey. "She took it and started across the street when a puff of wind carried her red hat to the top of a cab. The driver didn't see it and it rode away on the cab."

"What else was she wearing?"

"A black dress with a full skirt and a red petticoat. She had black gloves, red purse, black, high-heeled shoes and a fur scarf. It looked like fox. Her hair was in a long bob, page boy style and blonde."

"How tall was she?"

"Shorter than my husband. But she stood higher than I did next to him. Probably five feet, five or six inches."

"You saw all this from the window?"

"Through the binoculars. I was watching the crowd and happened to notice them."

"You knew they were going to be there, though?"

"No. It was purely an accident that I saw them."

"Why did you advertise in the paper to find the woman?"

"I thought she might know something that would solve all this mystery."

After a pause Venable said, "Your description is good. Now I'm going to see if you can identify her."

"Oh, you know her. Is she here?"

New hope rose in Julia.

"She's at the morgue," said Venable. His eyes seemed to press against her.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE UNATTAINED DREAM
Winston Churchill confessed his one unattained ambition is to play the kettle drum.—News Cable.
To each some happiness denied,
A goal withheld from one and all,
Some joy, forever put aside,
Which age will tenderly recall.
A carpenter, the priest would be
And to the hammer risk his thumb.
Now, Winston Churchill tells that he
Had hoped to play the kettle drum.

Once William Lyon Phelps, of Yale,
Unto an audience dared to own
That he had longed to run the scale
Upon the beating, slide trombone.
But unto books his days were tied;
Life-long his lips to tooting dumb.
His wish, as Churchill's wish denied
To play upon the kettle drum.

Thus high and low are like in this,
As all discover, soon or late;
For joys we gain are joys we miss.
For man there is no perfect state.
Not all our dreams fulfilled can be.
To each must disappointment come.
Phelps never pressed a trombone
key
And Churchill missed the kettle drum.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIVING TRIUMPHANTLY
It was recently said of a noted man that he had—
"Loved no darkness,
Sophisticated no truth,
Nursed no delusion,
Allowed no fear!"

When I read that I wished that I might have known that man. Indeed, I have known a few such human beings, but they are rare.

There are those who seem best pleased to travel on the dark side of the street of life. All's wrong with the world, but the wrong is mostly within themselves. They do not seek the light through choice. How inspiring is that line—"Loved no darkness!"

And then that second line—"Sophisticated no truth," that is, misrepresented no truth, but faced it, and understood it, as it was. No attempt to falsify it, or make of it something that it could not be. Truth always stands alone. And all too often those who know its worth and who have the courage to defend it, also stand alone. But such as these live triumphantly.

Now as to that third line—"Nursed no delusion." Probably there are few of us who have not at some time or other done just this. Not only have we nursed many a delusion, but we have kept it alive for a long time, until our intelligence and common sense have convinced us of its futility.

"Allowed no fear!" What strength of character is suggested in this line. Probably nothing is so rampant in the world as is fear—fear of ill health, fear of personal failure, fear of the future, fear of losing some of our prized possessions, fear of criticism, and fear of death itself.

It seems to me that if we could but make those four brief lines as applicable to us, we could surely own the triumphant life as our own. Is it not worth the attempt?

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "A Spirit Communicated."

Washington, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Claiming his foxhound 'Abner,' was shot and killed while pursuing a grey fox across a field, Robert K. Moore, Buffalo township sportsman Friday filed suit for $500 damages against Samuel Post. Moore described his dog as having "great speed and skill" in the destruction of foxes.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times
ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

On Motion of Daniel M. Smyser, Esq., Thomas McCreary, Esq., was last week admitted to practice in the several courts of Adams county.

On motion of Moses McClean, Esq., David McConaughy, Esq., was admitted to practice.

Thursday was observed by our citizens generally, as a day of Thanksgiving, etc., in accordance with the recommendation of the governor. Business was generally suspended, and there were religious exercises in the several churches of the borough.

Married, on the 20th ult., by the Rev. B. Keller, Mr. William Hewitt, to Miss Leah Carson, both of Menallen township.

On the 20th ult. by the Rev. E. V. Gerhart, Mr. John Orner, to Miss Sophia Catharine, eldest daughter of Mr. Peter Lupp, both of Menallen township.

On Tuesday, by the Rev. J. Sechler, Mr. Isaac Harner, of this county, to Miss Louisa Lambert, of Carroll county, Md.

On Wednesday, by the Rev. R. Gracy, the Rev. Mr. Jones, of York county, to Miss Laura, daughter of John Garvin, Esq., of this borough.

On the 3d inst., by the Rev. Dr. Zacharias, Maxwell Shields, Esq., to Miss Mary Witherow, both of Liberty township.

On the 11th ult., by the Rev. Mr. Steinbacher, Mr. Jacob Bolin, to Miss Elizabeth Eckenrode, both of Tyrone township.

On the 27th ult., at Conowago Chapel, by the Rev. Mr. Dietz, Mr. Joseph Lilly, to Miss Catharine Rely, both of Mountpleasant township.

Law Partnership: The undersigned having associated themselves in the practice of the law under the firm of McClean and McConaughy, respectfully tender their professional services to the public. Their office is in the room of Moses McClean, South Baltimore street, a few doors from the public square.—Moses McClean, David McConaughy.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Notary Public: Gov. Geary has re-appointed Robert Martin, Esq., notary public for the borough of Gettysburg.

Going South: Mr. Samuel Herbst, of this place, recently returned from a visit to Lexington, N. C., where he has purchased a farm of 300 acres. It is good land with excellent improvements, including a large two-story brick dwelling, about 100 acres of timber, etc. Yet Mr. Herbst pays but $2,500 for the entire property, a pretty fair illustration of the cheapness of land in that state since the war.

It is the intention of Mr. Herbst, with his son, Jacob C., to remove to North Carolina in the spring, personally to work on the farm.

Last spring Mr. J. J. Biesecker, of Franklin township, removed to the same county in North Carolina, having purchased a farm. Mr. F. Wysotzky, of this place, has also purchased near Lexington, and contemplates removing to North Carolina at an early day.

Married: Funt—Taylor: On the 1st inst., by the Rev. D. W. Wolf, Mr. Howard Funt to Miss Sarah C. Taylor, all of Butler township.

Myers—Phillips: On the 24th ult., by Rev. W. F. P. Davis, Mr. Moses C. Myers, of Round Hill, to Miss Sarah Phillips, near East Berlin.

Phillips—Miller: On the 24th ult., by Rev. W. F. P. Davis, Mr. Jacob Phillips to Miss Elizabeth Miller, both of Hampton.

Eicholtz—Meckley: On the 19th ult., by the Rev. J. E. Honeycutt, Mr. R. M. Eicholtz to Miss Lucy A. Meckley, both of Tyrone township, this county.

Gilbert—Weaver: On the 22d ult., in Chambersburg, by the Rev. L. A. Gotwald, Mr. Martin G. Gilbert to Miss Mary C., daughter of Nicholas Weaver, all of this place.

Peters—Swartz: On the 20th ult., by the Rev. J. B. Jones, Mr. John M. Peters to Miss Deliah Swartz, both of Menallen township.

Thanksgiving—Thanksgiving Day was observed throughout the country to a larger extent than usual. It seems that the good old New England festival is rapidly becoming a national institution. In Gettysburg, religious services were held in Christ church, Rev. Mr. Breidenbaugh and Rev. Dr. Brown delivering pertinent addresses. The pulpit was occupied by pastors of the various churches of the town, most of them participating in the services.

Police—The Town Council have appointed Michael Crilly and William J. Tate special night police for the borough.

Gas—Arrangements are being made to introduce gas into the Catholic church in this place, the work being now in progress.

Sales: Messrs. Levi Minter and Jacob Mickle have sold their farm in Cumberland township, 116 acres, to F. Bream, for $2,600.

Levi Minter has sold his farm in Franklin township, 55 acres, to Jacob Mickle, for $3,500.

Plus Breighner has sold his property situate in Oxford township, to Mrs. Alwine for $1,025.

SAYS CONGRESS SHOULD ACT IN STRIKE CRISES

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—The labor spotlight rested on capitol hill today.

Many legislators—feeling they can help reduce industrial disputes by passing a law, or several—had their appetite sharpened by the failure of President Truman's recent labor-management conference to come up with any machinery for orderly settlement of strikes or lockouts.

Some, like Rep. Michener, (R-Mich.), said they had waited out the four-week conference in the hope it would emerge with a re-conversion labor relations formula. Now, Michener told a reporter, he feels it is time for Congress to act.

Rep. Cox, (D-Ga.), co-author with Rep. Howard Smith, (D-Va.), of a bill to impose heavy penalties on unions which violate no-strike clauses in labor contracts, said in another interview he intends to call the measure up for an early House test, possibly this week.

Meanwhile arrangements have been made for AFL President William Green, CIO President Philip Murray and A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway

Trainmen, to address a "rump" session of House members Tuesday on this and another pending labor bill.

Chairman Sabath, (D-Ill.), of the Rules Committee and eight other House members called the informal meeting and invited 400 colleagues to attend. The second measure approved by the Judiciary Committee, would remove from the 1934 Anti-Racketeering Act an exemption for labor unions.

REVIVE GIRL
Pittsburgh, Dec. 3 (AP)—Policemen used oxygen from two small tanks yesterday to revive a 15-year-old school girl who had been overcome by fumes from a heater in the bathroom of her home. Two officers, worked over the girl, Florence Demsey, for 50 minutes before she regained consciousness.

IN THE GRAVE
Davenport, Ia., (AP)—It takes a mighty big tip to get a rise these days out of Bellhop Thomas P. Haugh, Jr. The discharged Pacific war veteran learned he had inherited the $22,000 estate of his grandfather. His plans? To stay on the job as a bellhop.

Kansas City, (AP)—Mrs. Betty Boyd, 83, reported to police the theft of $1,350 from her home. That amount, she said, was missing from a hiding place—in a hollow post of her old-fashioned brass bedstead.

ALL WOOL—Martha Vickers wears a 100% Shetland wool dress and topcoat of charcoal and brown combination.

Before the war, the oil industry distributed about 50,000,000 tourist road maps a year.

NAVY CAPTAIN

just completed a special, high speed run from San Francisco to Guam to deliver atomic bomb material—was traveling unescorted to Leyte in the Philippines when disaster struck.

Shortly after midnight on July 30 a terrific explosion blasted the Indianapolis. She sank within 15 minutes.

Details Not Explained
The loss has been attributed officially to "enemy action" but details never have been fully explained.

In an interview with Associated Press Reporter Morris Landsberg in a Peleliu hospital last August, McVay said his guess was "an underwater torpedo attack."

The skipper added that he told the navigator to make certain that distress signals were sent. These apparently were not heard because survivors were in the water four days before any were rescued.

The navy said this phase of the ship's loss still is being investigated and that the court martial will not go into the rescue delay.

Rear Adm. Wilder D. Baker, until recently chief of staff to the First Carrier Task Force, will be the senior officer of the court martial. Other members are Commodores Paul S. Theiss and William S. Popham and Captains Homer L. Grosskopf, H. J. Redfield, John R. Sullivan and Charles B. Hunt.

UPSWEPT—Lovely Jane Froman, New York night club singer, appears in the latest in hair styles.

Philadelphia, Dec. 3 (AP)—Approximately 6,000 workers at the Philadelphia navy yard—20 per cent of the total working force of 30,000—will lose their jobs in the next month or two, officials of the United Federal Workers of America (CIO) asserted yesterday.

DON'T LET SOAP SHORTAGES GET WORSE You can help!

Keep saving used fats to help prevent further cuts in your soap supply

As long as our country's supply of industrial fats is so low, the government must determine how much fat can be released to make soap and other peacetime goods.

Any let-down in your saving of used kitchen fats will make our fat supply even less—and the amount allowed for soap manufacture may have to be cut accordingly. The end of rationing of food fats doesn't change the picture. Industrial fats are still very short. So keep turning in your used fats, won't you? . . . and speed the return of more soaps to your dealer's shelves.

IT'S SO EASY TO HELP! I'LL KEEP SAVING FATS AS LONG AS THE GOVERNMENT WANTS!

GOOD FOR YOU MRS. BROWN YOU'LL HELP PUT MORE SOAPS BACK ON THE COUNTER SOONER!

Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

Hollywood, Dec. 3 (P)—Robert Taylor wonders if movie fans will remember him.

"It's been a long time since I was on the screen," he told me. "Song of Russia" was the last one, and that was three years ago. That's why I'd like to get back to work as soon as possible." He said he would probably be broke if his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, hadn't been working.

I saw Bob in his MGM dressing room, which he was trying to tidy up. His build hasn't changed—he lost only four pounds in the navy—but his face has a much more rugged appearance. And his voice seems much deeper, almost a bass. He is considering a story called "You Were There," which would be a re-creation of the 1918-19 war.

Producer Louis De Rochemont is preparing a movie which he thinks will be 10 times as exciting as his recent thriller, "The House on 92nd Street."

It's an untold story of the office of strategic services, the "Clock and Dagger Men" of the recent war, although they don't like that title. There's the man (and woman, by the way) who performed espionage work in enemy territory. Rochemont told me his writers were having trouble sifting the amazing stories of OSS men into a believable screen play.

The producer intends to film the picture in the same manner as "92nd Street." For Washington shots he will go to Washington. For the invasion of France he will go to Omaha Beach, or a reasonable replica. He said melodrama cannot be believable unless its backgrounds are the real thing. That's a revolutionary theory in this town of paper buildings and painted skies.

While visiting on Art Linkletter's afternoon "house party" show, I learned about his latest stunt for "Feeling like Paddy." A contestant will fly 150 miles over the Pacific ocean and there drop 12 plastic containers. The contestants will be under the watchful eye of the first one. The contestant meantime will be 10 times as exciting as his recent thriller, "The House on 92nd Street."

GM PROPOSAL UP TO UNION
RANK AND FILE

(By The Associated Press)

A conditionally accepted General Motors proposal that the UAW resume limited parts production in idle plants was put squarely before the union's rank and file today after running into opposition from some strikers.

The Flint, Mich., Industrial union council, which claims to represent 40,000 GM strikers, asserted the return to work of some strikers would have the effect of "destroying morale" and might lead to "riot and bloodshed." It "condemned and opposed" the proposal, which it charged would "divide our forces."

Similar opposition came from the UAW-CIO stronghold in Flint, which asserted the strikers intended to keep the GM plant there tightly closed "until our just demands are won."

The outburst of dissension brought a statement from union president R. J. Thomas that the international union "has no intention of arbitrarily and immediately ordering strikers back to work in the General Motors parts plants."

Thomas said certain "erroneous impressions" had arisen from his Saturday letter to the corporation conditionally accepting the GM proposal that strikers resume production of auto parts for the benefit of competitors of General Motors.

His letter stated, Thomas said, to determine "just what GM-manufactured parts, if any" were essential to the continuous production in plants of competing companies.

"When all these facts are ascertained, they will, as I said, be laid before the GM local unions involved. In accordance with the well established democratic procedure of the UAW, no groups of strikers will go back to work under any circumstances until they have voted to do so."

Over 600,000 Idle

The 12 day strike has idled some 225,000 in 700 odd plants.

However, the latest "demonstration" work stoppage shot the nation's list of idle over the 600,000 mark today, despite the expected return to work of 30,000 AFL lumber and sawmill workers in the Pacific northwest.

Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime union called the union's 90,000 workers out at 8 a. m. (EST) today for a 24 hour work stoppage in protest against what he contended was the slow return of servicemen from abroad. He said troops, colliers, tankers and vessels carrying relief supplies

Railroads Seek Uses For Radar

Philadelphia, Dec. 3 (AP)—The electronic miracle of the war—radar—is being tested for possible use by the nation's railroads.

The Reading railroad announces new, high frequency railroad communication equipment—providing two-way conversation between locomotives and yard offices—have been tested at Wayne and Nicetown stations (Pa.).

Radars said loud speakers capable of being heard above the roar of trains are part of the receiving equipment at both fixed and mobile test stations.

would be the only ships manned in the nation's ports during the demonstration.

Operators employing 30,000 lumber workers prepared to resume operations today after more locals ratified 15 cents hourly wage increase agreements. The approval came from fir workers, however, and another 30,000 strikers in the pine industry are expected to stay out, asking larger increases.

Officials of the International Nickel company at Huntington, W. Va., rejected a state labor commissioner's suggestion that a 12 day strike of 1,600 district 50 United Mine workers be ended in favor of negotiation of a contract dispute. The union had accepted.

AND HERE'S THE REASON!

ALL gasolines (including Sunoco Dynafuel) are composed of "light" and "heavy" molecules. As the gasoline goes into the cylinders from the carburetor, some of the "heavy" molecules separate from the rest of the gasoline and go to certain cylinders which get most of the "heavy" molecules while other cylinders get mostly "light" molecules.

IN ORDINARY GASOLINE the "heavy" molecules are low in octane quality... but the "light" molecules are high octane. The cylinders receiving the low grade "heavy" molecules do not receive the same high knockless quality as other cylinders.

IN SUNOCO DYNAFUEL, all molecules, both "heavy" and "light" deliver equally high octane power. No matter whether a cylinder receives "light" or "heavy" molecules, that cylinder and all cylinders receive uniformly high knockless quality.

BYRNES AWAITS FULL REPORT ON BALKAN STATUS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
 (Associated Press Diplomatic News Editor)

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes is slated to receive a first-hand report this week on political conditions in the Soviet-controlled Balkan countries of Bulgaria and Romania.

There is no prospect, according to diplomatic information here, that the information he gets will bring any quick improvement in American-Russian relations.

The report will come from Mark Ethridge, Louisville, Ky., publisher whom Byrnes sent to the Balkans about six weeks ago to gather facts for a review of American policy of refusing to recognize the Rumanian and Bulgarian governments.

Favors Non-Recognition

Ethridge is returning by way of Rome, but in his preliminary dispatches to the State Department he has indicated clearly that his full report will support the non-recognition policy—based on the contention that the governments of Bucharest and Sofia are not truly representative of the people.

The Balkan situation thus moves back into the diplomatic spotlight at a time when events in Iran, another point of friction between Russia and the western Allies, also appear to be getting more instead of less complicated.

A Moscow report last night said Russia has turned down the United States proposal of a week ago that Russia and Britain as well as this country withdraw all troops from the little Middle Eastern country by January 1.

Some Bright Spots

While dispatches from Tehran said 2,000 American troops had arrived as replacements for men going home for discharge, State Department officials said it still is the intention of this country to get all its troops out of Iran by the first of the year.

While the Balkans and Iran are causing trouble and there is considerable expectation that serious disputes also will develop very soon over Turkey and the Dardanelles, there actually are some bright spots in the picture.

One is the agreement by which Russian and American troops are being withdrawn completely from Czechoslovakia.

Another is the high degree of cooperation in Austria, in contrast with the confusion among the Allied rulers of Germany.

A third is the progress made in eliminating the Soviet-American division of Korea.

Picture Brighter In Talon Strike

Meadville, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Favorable progress toward settlement of a dispute that has forced shut-down of Talon, Inc. plants here and at Erie was reported today by Henry E. Weley, negotiating chairman of Local 110, AFL-Tool and Die Makers.

Werley said a wage proposal offered by the company Friday night had been voted on by Local 110 members yesterday.

At Erie, A. E. Ross, business agent of the Tool and Die Makers Local 116, said the measure was to come before a union meeting today (1 p. m.).

Neither the union nor the company would disclose details of the proposal.

Werley said the next step would be a meeting with the company to consider "the remaining phases of the contract." He said these dealt mainly with working conditions.

"That might take three hours, and it might take three days," the union spokesman declared, adding: "After that the entire contract will be brought back for approval of the full union membership."

Deer Take Reported Below Expectations

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Game protectors N. M. Ruhla, of Cambria county, and Millard Crooks, of Somerset county, said the district's deer kill has been "fairly good," but "not quite up to expectations."

A six to seven inch snow in the mountains and poor visibility has kept the kill down.

The game protectors added that it might have been better, but the hunters have not been driving. "They're content to let someone else drive the deer out while they sit and wait."

HUNTING FATALITY

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 3 (AP)—Forty-five minutes after opening of the deer hunting season Saturday Ray Yeager, 30, of St. Boniface was killed near here by a stray rifle bullet. Yeager, hunting with his two brothers, had climbed a tree and was watching for deer when the bullet struck him in the stomach.

Chapter 18

Monday 4 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Julia would have fled if she could but a short struggle demonstrated that she could not break the detective's grip on her arm. It was embarrassing to have the persons in the office staring at her. A feeling of utter hopelessness took possession of her.

"Am I under arrest?" she finally managed to ask, reasoning bitterly that she had the Inspector to thank for this. It was queer how they had found her so easily when she had been sure that she wasn't being followed.

"No. Oh, no, Miss," the detective reassured her as if the idea were preposterous. That was the only thing he said, the ride to headquarters being completely silent.

Arrived there things were managed very strangely, she considered. She was taken into a large office and a fat man behind a paper-piled desk asked for her name and address. After Julia gave it he did not write it down on the form but stood up staring at her. A girl on the other side of him at a smaller desk opened her mouth and her gun spilled out. The detective who had brought her in said, "Geemee!"

"She doesn't look like her pictures in that get-up," said the girl.

"Why didn't they know who I am?" Julia wondered.

She was hustled out through some corridors and into another room. It was small and orderly and she was given a comfortable leather chair. The detective who had brought her took a straight chair near the door and leaned forward, his hands resting on his knees.

There were a thousand questions she wanted to ask him but somehow she didn't dare break the silence. Time ticked on.

The one window in the office faced a square ventilating well. It was clean but there was nothing to see through it except other office windows. Daylight grew dim and dusk settled over the room.

She thought this must be the third degree. They expected her to break down under the pressure of silence and darkness. Her nerves felt like clamps that held her fingernails pressed into the palms of her hands and her feet pushed against the floor. Just when she thought she must cry out the door opened.

A man entered and snapped on the lights.

"For heaven's sake, Brown! You holding a seance?" Inspector Venable said irritably.

"Musta' dozed off," muttered Brown.

"Mrs. Baker, you gave me an awful scare." His manner was brisk and ignored entirely the scene they had had that morning. He stood looking down at her for a moment, then swung into the chair back of the desk. He picked up the phone and told some one to send in a stenographer.

"I've been looking for you," he said when he had hung up. "Don't you know it just makes it worse when you try to get away?"

"I had something to do."

"Yes. You walked right into another case."

Before she could ponder on this a young man entered the room and after a nod from Venable he took a chair at the side of the desk and flopped open a book.

"Mrs. Baker, who is the woman with the red hat?"

"I don't know. You see—"

"Let me remind you that I'm having a record made and anything you say may be used."

The words smote her. The same warning was given murderers.

"Do you think I should get a lawyer?" she asked breathlessly.

"Do you need one?"

She looked straight into his eyes. "No."

"I seek only justice. If you aren't guilty you don't need a lawyer."

At that moment she believed him. "I only saw her across the street," she began slowly. "I was standing at my window that faces Central Park. She was at the north wall of the park talking to my husband. He gave her some money." She didn't need to tell about the paper the woman had given Robey. "She took it and started across the street when a puff of wind carried her red hat to the top of a cab. The driver didn't see it and it rode away on the cab."

"What else was she wearing?"

"A black dress with a full skirt and a red petticoat. She had black gloves, red purse, black, high-heeled shoes and a fur scarf. It looked like fox. Her hair was in a long bob, page boy style and blonde."

"How tall was she?"

"Shorter than my husband. But she stood higher than I did next to him. Probably five feet, five or six inches."

"You saw all this from the window?"

"Through the binoculars. I was watching the crowd and happened to notice them."

"You knew they were going to be there, though?"

"No. It was purely an accident that I saw them."

"Why did you advertise in the paper to find the woman?"

"I thought she might know something that would solve all this mystery."

After a pause Venable said, "Your description is good. Now I'm going to see if you can identify her."

"Oh, you know her. Is she here?" New hope rose in Julia.

"She's at the morgue," said Venable. His eyes seemed to press against her.
